

Writing an Informational Essay

HOOK (ANECDOTE)

Walking into class on the first day of school can be an anxious and exciting time. However, after taking a seat, every student's eyes slowly catch a glimpse of the assignment board. The bell has yet to ring; however, the class is aware of what lies ahead and anxiously awaits the teacher's announcement, hoping the board is a "welcome back to school" joke. They soon learn that it is no joke—on the first day of school, their teacher assigned an essay. Luckily, it is an informational essay that simply requires the class to detail their summer vacation. Writing an informational essay can be challenging, but knowing what to include in the introduction, body, and conclusion can help guide simplify the process.

BACKGROUND

THESIS

TOPIC SENTENCE

The first step in the process of writing an information essay involves the introduction. The most important part of the introduction is gaining the attention of the reader. Creating interest makes the reader more receptive to new ideas. After the attention grabber, the writer provides an introduction of the main topic, including any background information the reader needs to understand the essay. The last sentence then includes the thesis statement, which identifies the purpose of the essay and can include the writer's supports. Upon completion of the introduction, the next step in the development of an essay includes the body paragraphs.

TRANSITION

TOPIC SENTENCE

The purpose of the body paragraphs in an informational essay is to explain the major points in support of the purpose statement. The first sentence of each paragraph should be a topic sentence identifying the main idea. The writer provides evidence to support that paragraph's specific topic. After identifying the evidence, the writer must explain how the evidence supports the claim identified in the topic sentence. After providing body paragraphs in support of the purpose identified in the thesis, the writer proceeds to the conclusion.

Congress, the Press, and Political Accountability R. Douglas Arnold, 2013-10-31 Congress the Press and Political Accountability is the first large scale examination of how local media outlets cover members of the United States Congress Douglas Arnold asks do local newspapers provide the information citizens need in order to hold representatives accountable for their actions in office In contrast with previous studies which largely focused on the campaign period he tests various hypotheses about the causes and consequences of media coverage by exploring coverage during an entire congressional session Using three samples of local newspapers from across the country Arnold analyzes all coverage over a two year period every news story editorial opinion column letter and list First he investigates how twenty five newspapers covered twenty five local representatives and next how competing newspapers in six cities covered their corresponding legislators Examination of an even larger sample sixty seven newspapers and 187 representatives shows why some newspapers cover legislators more thoroughly than do other papers Arnold then links the coverage data with a large public opinion survey to show that the volume of coverage affects citizens awareness of representatives and challengers The results show enormous variation in coverage Some newspapers cover legislators frequently thoroughly and accessibly Others some of them famous for their national coverage largely ignore local representatives The analysis also confirms that only those incumbents or challengers in the most competitive races and those who command huge sums of money receive extensive coverage Nuclear Safety ,1973 Writer's Monthly ,1922 The Shock and Vibration Digest ,1985
