Practitioner's Guide to Evaluating Change with Neuropsychological Assessment Instruments Robert J. McCaffrey, Kevin Duff, Holly James Westervelt, 2013-11-11 The impetus for this volume began with our research in the 1980 s involving serial neuropsychological evaluation with various patient populations At that time reports on the practice effects associated with routinely utilized clinical neuropsychological instruments were sparse While test retest data were available for almost all assessment instruments this was usually in the form of correlation coefficients and not changes in mean performance between or across assessment periods see McCaffrey Westervelt 1995 for a detailed discussion of these and related issues Clinical neuropsychological practitioners had few guidelines to assist them in determining if a change in a patient s performance across assessments was due to an intervention maturation practice effects or a combination of factors This volume represents our efforts at reviewing the literature between 1970 and 1998 and extracting the reported information on practice effects The tables include the assessment instrument used information on the subject patient groups the sample size n gender age intervention interval between the assessments scores at both assessment points and the citation Those studies that reported data on more than two assessment points are indicated by a notation however any data beyond the second assessment are not reported and the interested reader should refer to the original article The tables are arranged alphabetically for the most widely used assessment instruments Those instruments for which there was limited data on practice effects are grouped by domain e g

Implantable Defibrillator Therapy: A Clinical Guide Antonio Pacifico, Philip D. Henry, Gust H. Bardy, Martin Borggrefe, Francis E. Marchlinski, Andrea Natale, Bruce L. Wilkoff, 2012-12-06 Implantable defibrillators as originally conceived by Michel Mirowski were limited to the detection and automatic termination of ventricular fibrillation In the original AID device the detection algorithm sought to distinguish sinus rhythm from ventricular fibrillation by identifying the more sinusoidal waveform of ventricular fibrillation The therapeutic intervention was elicited only once deadly polymorphic rhythms had developed It was rapidly learned however that ventricular fibrillation is usually preceded by ventricular tachycardia Mirowski recognized the pivotal importance of developing algorithms based on heart rate Ventricular tachycardia detection allowed the successful development of interventions for the termination of ventricular tachyarrhythmias before they degenerated into ventricular fibrillation Current device therapy no longer confines itself to the termination of chaotic rhythms but seeks to prevent them Diagnostic algorithms moved upward along the chain of events leading to catastrophic rhythms Rate smoothing algorithms were developed to prevent postextrasystolic pauses from triggering ventricular and atrial tachyarrhythmias Beyond the renaissance of ectopy centered strategies long term prevention received increasing attention Multisite pacing therapies provided by Arrhythmia Management Devices were designed to reduce the arrhythmia burden and optimize the synergy of cardiac contraction and relaxation Clinical evidence now suggests that atrial fibrillation prevention by pacing is feasible and that biventricular pacing may be of benefit in selected patients with heart failure However these applications of device therapy that generally require ventricular defibrillation backup remain investigational and were not considered in this book
