offers a complete and up to date look at the field Truth in Fiction John Woods, 2018-02-23 This monograph examines truth in fiction by applying the techniques of a naturalized logic of human cognitive practices The author structures his project around two focal questions What would it take to write a book about truth in literary discourse with reasonable promise of getting it right What would it take to write a book about truth in fiction as true to the facts of lived literary experience as objectivity allows It is argued that the most semantically distinctive feature of the sentences of fiction is that they are unambiguously true and false together It is true that Sherlock Holmes lived at 221B Baker Street and also concurrently false that he did A second distinctive feature of fiction is that the reader at large knows of this inconsistency and isn't in the least cognitively molested by it Why it is asked would this be so What would explain it Two answers are developed According to the no contradiction thesis the semantically tangled sentences of fiction are indeed logically inconsistent but not logically contradictory According to the no bother thesis if the inconsistencies of fiction were contradictory a properly contrived logic for the rational management of inconsistency would explain why readers at large are not thrown off cognitive stride by their embrace of those contradictions As developed here the account of fiction suggests the presence of an underlying three or four valued dialethic logic The author shows this to be a mistaken impression There are only two truth values in his logic of fiction The naturalized logic of Truth in Fiction jettisons some of the standard assumptions and analytical tools of contemporary philosophy chiefly because the neurotypical linguistic and cognitive behaviour of humanity at large is at variance with them Using the resources of a causal response epistemology in tandem with the naturalized logic the theory produced here is data driven empirically sensitive and open to a circumspect collaboration with the empirical sciences of language and cognition Uncommon Understanding Dorothy V. M. Bishop, 1997 A unique book integrating research in language acquisition psycholinguistics and neuropsychology to give a comprehensive picture of the process we call comprehension The emphasis of the book is on children with specific language impairments The Social Communication Intervention Programme Resource Catherine Adams, Jacqueline Gaile, 2024-03-29 The Social Communication Intervention Programme SCIP has been developed to support school aged children 6-11 years with social communication pragmatic and language needs SCIP provides a rationale and method for providing specialist level pragmatics and language therapy for these children who have significant social communication differences The SCIP model is introduced in The Social Communication Intervention Programme Manual and this book presents the content of the intervention programme itself using a nested structure of 150 adaptable therapy activities It contains the complete set of resources required to plan and deliver the interventions set out in the companion book including forms activities and ready made information sheets Content can also be downloaded and printed for easy use Used alongside The Social Communication Intervention Programme Manual this book offers a truly practical tried and tested model to provide targeted individualised intervention for children with social communication challenges It is an essential tool for speech and language therapists specialist teachers and psychologists who are working with children with social communication pragmatic and language needs For the most effective use The SCIP Resource should be purchased alongside The SCIP Manual Decisions and Orders of the National Labor Relations Board United States. National Labor Relations Board,1956 Inferences during Reading Edward J. O'Brien,Anne E. Cook,Robert F. Lorch,2015-04-16 A study of inferencing from a wide variety of theoretical and disciplinary perspectives as well as different levels of processing The Development of Goal-based Inference Making Julie Stone Lynch,2002 Pragmatics of Fiction Miriam A. Locher,Andreas H. Jucker,2017-04-10 Pragmatics of Fiction provides systematic orientation in the emerging field of studying pragmatics with in fictional data It provides an authoritative and accessible overview of this versatile new field in its methodological and theoretical richness Giving center stage to fictional language allows scholars to review key concepts in sociolinguistics such as genre style voice stance dialogue participation structure or features of orality and literariness The contributors explore language as one of the creative tools to craft story worlds and characters by drawing on concepts such as regional social and ethnic language variation as well as multilingualism Themes such as emotion taboo language or impoliteness in fiction receive attention just as the challenges of translation and dubbing the creation of past and future languages the impact of fictional language on language change or the fuzzy boundaries of narratives Each contribution written by a leading specialist gives a succinct representative and up to date overview of research questions theories methods and recent developments in the field Active Reading Classrooms Jennifer Kelly,2023-08-22 This practical book invites teachers to investigate different strategies to teach both whole class and individual intervention lessons in reading The book strives to take students beyond the simple view of reading and make them active users of language who make connections among the elements that science tells us are part of the reading process Teachers will find strategies focused on self regulation word recognition and language comprehension along with various ways to connect and strengthen each aspect of reading The lessons address new research about the complexities of reading and focus on scaffolding and differentiating learning for students in elementary classrooms
