To Train A Queen English Edition:

The Bookseller, 1864 The queen's isle, chapters on the Isle of Wight, by the authoress of Edith Aubrey [signing herself Rosa]. Rosa Raine, 1861 Contemporary Composition Studies Edith Babin, Kimberly Harrison, 1999-12-30

Composition studies is a rapidly growing and constantly changing field At present however graduate students new to the field and writing teachers who want to make new connections between theory and practice have little choice of current reference works that define key terms in composition studies and provide information about the scholars and researchers who have shaped and are shaping the discipline This book supplies this information in an easily accessible format and places both scholars and terms in the context of the field s development Included are alphabetically arranged entries for 108 individuals who have developed the field and 128 terms central to the discipline The first part of the book provides entries for leaders in composition studies Each entry identifies the areas in which the scholar has contributed most influentially to the field and provides both a chronological overview of the person s contributions and a bibliography of representative works The second part includes entries for terms that are problematic both for newcomers and for those already familiar with the discipline The entries for the terms show how the disciplinary context has shaped the ways in which they have been used The entries also indicate how established thinkers in composition studies and other disciplines have explained or defined the terms provide examples of the terms in context and list scholars often associated with them An appendix includes entries for scholars from other disciplines who have contributed to the field Queen's University Frederick W. Gibson, 1983-10-01 The author emphasizes the role of individuals and yet makes it quite evident that by the time of her centenary in the early days of World War II Queen s had developed an organic vitality through which the vicissitudes occasioned by external fortunes or by internal tensions could be transcended Throughout the period covered by this volume Queen s faced a long hard struggle for adequate resources for research in terms of space equipment and most importantly faculty time the gradual development of graduate work and the building of library resources There was firm and creative leadership through the crises of the war and its aftermath and a renewal of optimism through the final decades of this history Bookseller, 1864 Vols for 1871 76 1913 14 include an extra number The Christmas bookseller separately paged and not included in the consecutive numbering of the regular series History of the Affairs of Church and State in Scotland Robert Keith, 1850 Educational Times, 1882
