

School-leaving Examinations

Reforming the system

The 14-19 reforms came out of the working group, chaired by Sir Mike Tomlinson, which looked at the way qualifications are assessed. In October 2004 the Tomlinson report called for a unified diploma system for all 14-19 year olds, which would gradually replace all other qualifications.

The Government decided to retain GCSEs and A-Levels and to reform just the vocational (known as applied) side of the qualifications system. In February 2005 the Government published the 14-19 Education and Skills White Paper, which responded to the Tomlinson report, and committed to retaining and strengthening A levels in the long term.

The Changing Face of Colonial Education in Africa Peter Kallaway,2021-07-29 The Changing Face of Colonial Education in Africa offers a detailed and nuanced perspective of colonial history based on 15 years of research that throws fresh light on the complexities of African history and the colonial world of the first half of the twentieth century It provides an analytical background to the history of education in the colonial context by balancing contributions by missionary agencies colonial government humanitarian agencies scientific experts and African agents It offers a foundation for the analysis of modern educational policy for the postcolonial state It attempts to move beyond clichés about colonial education to an understanding of the complexities of how educational policy was developed in different places at different times while giving credence to arguments that see schooling as a form of social control in the colonial environment It is essential reading for academics researchers and policymakers looking to better understand colonial education and contextualize modern developments related to the decolonizing African education It is intended to provide an essential background for policy makers by demonstrating the significance of a historical perspective for an understanding of contemporary educational challenges in Africa and elsewhere The Times Index ,2006 Indexes the Times Sunday times and magazine Times literary supplement Times educational supplement Times educational supplement Scotland and the Times higher education supplement

Education, Policy and Social Justice James Avis,2007-04-05 James Avis develops an important argument in this wide ranging book in which questions of social justice play a central role He explores the socio economic and policy context of education in advanced capitalist societies and indicates the manner in which the rhetoric of policy makers distorts the way in which skill is marshalled in the economy The result is that oppressive and exploitative features of paid labour are underplayed in this rhetoric He examines the lived experiences of teachers and students in post compulsory education and explores their contradictory positions If questions of social justice are to be addressed an economically driven model of education should be rejected in favour of one that is politically engaged and utilises an expansive model of practice extending into the wider society

Comparative Perspectives on Inquiry-Based Science Education Bevins, Stuart,Lehane, Louise,Booth, Josephine,2019-03-15 The core practice of professional scientists is inquiry often referred to as research If educators are to prepare students for a role in the professional scientific and technological community exposing them to inquiry based learning is essential Despite this inquiry based teaching and learning IBTL remains relatively rare possibly due to barriers that teachers face in deploying it or to a lack of belief in the teaching community that inquiry based learning is effective Comparative Perspectives on Inquiry Based Science Education examines stories and experiences from members of an international science education project that delivered learning resources based around guided inquiry for students to a wide range of schools in 12 different countries in order to identify key themes that can provide useful insights for student learning teacher support and policy formulation at the continental level The book provides case studies across these 12 different settings that enable readers to compare and contrast both practice and policy issues with their own contexts while accessing a cutting edge model of professional development It is designed for educators instructional designers administrators principals researchers policymakers practitioners and students seeking current and relevant research on international education and education strategies for science courses Apprenticeships Erica Smith,Vikki Smith,2005 Ople has traditionally been an alternative to mainstream routes through school and college university However significant changes in recent years remain relatively unexplored and under researched Drawing on contributions from a range of countries this e book on Apprenticeships explores some of the challenges that the apprenticeship system faces in the countries represented as their economies and societies evolve and the measures that are being taken to address these challenges A Cricket in the Thorn Tree Joanna Strangwayes-Booth,1976

A National Health Service? John Mohan,1995-03-20 This book contrasts the proposals of the Royal Commission of the late 1970s with the very different set of priorities enshrined in the 1989 White Paper and describes how the changes between the two documents came about It argues that the NHS reforms should be seen not as the inevitable product of technical developments nor as a consensus response to narrowly managerial difficulties within the NHS but rather as part of a wider political strategy towards state provision of welfare The book strongly emphasises the uneven geographical impacts of post 1979 changes a topic usually underplayed by analysts of social policy and draws heavily on previously unpublished material
