building a precision ROUTER GUIDE

At the heart of this system is an adjustable router guide. At first glance, it may look as though there's a lot going on here (Construction View). But when you break the guide down into its basic parts and understand what each of those parts does, it all starts to become clear.

Let's start with the guide rail sub-assembly (that's the collection of pieces in the left side of the Construction View). The purpose of this assembly is to connect the guide to the metal fence and keep the whole works moving in a straight line. It does that with two hardwood rails that straddle the fence. These guide rails are faced with a strip of UHMW. This is an extremely slick plastic. It allows you to literally "pinch" the fence between the rails, but still have it slide freely. The guide rails are connected with a piece of polycarbonate and some woodscrews.

The second part of the guide is a rod assembly. Notice that there are two steel rods that run through the base of the router (see Photo above). At the end of these rods is another block of hardwood — the adjustment block. This block "traps" the router on the rods. To that end, the rods are threaded
