when estimated in comparison with the time and labour usually devoted to the study of Geography in our schools are far from being satisfactory to themselves or to their pupils Without attempting to point out defects in prevailing modes of teaching this or other branches we may be permitted to suggest that inasmuch as the human mind is governed by fixed and immutable laws any system which operates in harmony with these laws will enable us to accomplish much more than that which has no foundation in mental philosophy Observation is the first step in intellectual progress in order therefore successfully to impart and to acquire knowledge the attention of the learner must as far as possible be exclusively directed to the subject under consideration Secondly each simple or complex idea should be clearly comprehended previous to any additional matter being presented for examination Thirdly the mind must be taxed there must be a degree of intellectual effort or mental exertion proportionate to the end to be attained Fourthly the process of repetition is indispensably necessary to render the mind familiar with any science Fifthly by means of the principles of association the basis of memory we should weave together skilfully and methodically the various facts and ideas acquired and thus render our knowledge permanent and practical

Classification The Grand and Sub Divisions of each country should be taught in every instance as the First lesson to a class The large bodies of water viz Oceans Seas Gulfs Days Lakes any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

First Steps in Geography Alexis Everett Frye, 2015-06-24 Excerpt from First Steps in Geography Plan This book covers the work of two school years either the fourth and fifth or the fifth and sixth It offers a brief course to pupils that must leave school after only two years of geography study and it also leads by easy steps to the larger geography

Aim The aim is to show man's relations to nature These relations are traced through such broad topics as surface features climate products industries trade states cities etc

Commerce History follows routes of trade For this reason commerce takes a leading place in this book Products and industries leading to commerce are given many special maps and lessons This is clearly shown on pages 55 to 65 where cities are treated in their industrial relations United States Every pupil should know the leading facts about his own country A large part of this book is devoted to the United States

Pictures The pictures supplement the text and are true to nature Nearly all were engraved from photographs

Maps Special attention is called to the number and variety of maps as well as to their accuracy For example under North America see the shaded relief map on page 40 colored relief map and zone map on page 41 political map on page 43 plant and animal maps on pages 45 and 46 The great relief map of the United States on pages 140 to 141 is photographed from a raised model The Philippine maps on pages 117 to 121 will be of great help in following current events

Helps The Helps after each lesson are to guide pupils towards the leading facts as well as to help the busy teachers Pupils should answer questions not in the words of the book but in their own language Teachers will be pleased to note that only in rare cases is it necessary to turn a leaf to find answers to questions

Spelling In spelling and usage of geographic names the maps and text follow the rulings of the United States Board on Geographic Names This book adopts the best modern usage and allows the capital letter in specific names such as Rhine and Andes but not in common class names such as river and mountains thus Rhine river Andes mountains

Sizes of type The text in small type gives explanations or interesting details and does not call for such close study as the text in larger type Names of cities in black or heavy faced type may be used as topics for recitation About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
