

Revised STAAR English I and II Assessments

As of spring 2014, the English I and II reading and writing assessments will be combined to become one assessment—English I and English II EOC. The chart below was adapted from TEA released chart which demonstrated the difference between the separate reading and writing tests and the newly revised combined test. This information is intended to help teachers and administrators understand the new time constraints of the redesigned test, as well as revisit the instructional implications of the English I and II STAAR content.

Reporting Categories	Redesigned STAAR English (Embedded Field Testing)	Instructional Implications
Reporting Category 1: Understanding/Analysis Across Genres	6 multiple-choice (MC) 2 short answer questions (SAQ)	- Students will need to think critically/inferentially about texts (read between and beyond the lines) - Students will need to understand what makes a connection between texts thematic or meaningful - Short answer questions: students will need to make the difference between affective and/or based test evidence and know how to play "inside" the text to find evidence - Examples of connecting questions items: - What is one similarity or difference between the two selections or between the narrator/speakers/characters/authors in the two selections? - What is a theme or idea explored in both selections? Is the central message of the two selections the same? - How does a particular quotation from one selection link/correspond thematically to a quotation from the other selection?
Reporting Category 2: Understanding/Analysis of Literary Texts	11 MC	- Because STAAR routinely employs dual-coding using F-field and a genre knowledge and skill statement, students will need to make complex inferences in all genres, beyond demonstrating the specific associated in individual student expectations - Dual-coded questions tend to ask about author's craft. Students should be able to identify author's "tools" and articulate how they affect meaning - Student will need to understand and apply the specific academic vocabulary associated with literary and informational reading - Examples of authors' craft items: - Why does the author include a particular paragraph? - Why does the author begin or end a piece in a particular way? - Why does the author include a description of 200? - How does a plot, paragraph, or author use imagery, simile, metaphor, hyperbole, personification, time disruptions (flashback, foreshadowing) to create meaning? - How does the author organize the selection? Why does the author organize the information in a particular way?
Reporting Category 3: Understanding/Analysis of Informational Texts	11 MC
Selection Breakdown	6 selections (1 per MC single selections)	Poetry has been represented widely in the 2013 released tests. All genres should be taught through reading and writing. Differences at different genres should be compared.
Reading/Gloss Test	28 MC, 2 SA
Embedded Reading Field Test	1 MC, 1 SA, (1 per OR single selections)
