Introduction

Incentives came by and an investment ground was ripe. Financial companies had money to invest and the housing sector had room for investment. This can be a description of what was later to be seen as one of the world worst economic crisis.

The subprime mortgage crisis that was experienced in the United States between the period of years 2007 and 2010 had its effect felt world wide. This discussion seeks to illustrate the financial and economic effects of the crisis. The paper will include the causes of the subprime mortgage crisis, its development and the global affects that it caused.

Subprime mortgage

Subprime mortgage is a mortgage to a person who has a low probability of paying back the loan. Though financial companies engage risk in giving loans, loans are normally given to people with credible ability to pay back the given loan. The subprime mortgage however breaches the mortgage standard by lowering the level of strictness on the qualifications on mortgage (Pritchard, 2011).

Causes of the crisis

Bianco (2008) explained that one of the reasons that caused the crisis was the escalated increase in the housing value. The value of houses started rising in the year 2001 and climaxed in the year 2005. The market equilibrium forces then had to bring down the risen prices. This saw real estate loose value to the point that the real estate valuations got lower than the mortgage loans.

Another reason for the crisis was the low interest rates in mortgage and subprime mortgage in particular. The action by the federal bank to reduce short term rates in order to correct the 2000 recession was also a factor. The low rates that were reduced subprime mortgage crisis in the integrated oil and gas industry Konstantinos Tsanis, 2010-02-05 Master's Thesis from the year 2009 in the subject Business economics Investment and Finance grade 69% University of Edinburgh language English abstract The years 2007-2009 the global economy has been affected by the subprime mortgages crisis which has its origins in the extremely risky positions that some banks and financial institutions held. When defaults in payments started and banks started facing problems in their payments lending between banks became more difficult and through the contagion of the global financial system the crisis spread around the world. This crisis affected many industries. The current paper attempts to examine the impact of the 2007-2009 subprime mortgage crisis in the integrated oil and gas industry. Energy and subsequently oil and gas are vital for many other industries as well as for individuals and households. The impact of the crisis is examined through a multimethod approach. Questionnaires which were sent to executives of oil and gas companies are analysed in the beginning followed by analysis of basic figures of the financial statements of the 200 biggest oil and gas companies. Findings are supplemented by the examination of the analysts' recommendations for a number of years. Finally the mergers and acquisitions between oil and gas companies are examined. This paper has the characteristic that it investigates an event which is still unfolding. As a result there is not established information about some topics such as the specific causes of the crisis. Therefore the emerging literature on some topics is analysed and specialists' reports are included to compare and contrast findings. Results show that even though energy and subsequently oil and gas are necessary for almost every industry the decrease in global demand as well as the lower oil prices will lead to a decrease in long term investing. Furthermore sales of companies are expected to be lower and this will oblige companies to find ways to reduce the costs in all the levels of their value chain.

How the Coming Global Crash Will Create a Historic Gold Rush Dean Heskin, Jerome R. Corsi, Ph.D., 2023-05-24 How the Coming Global Crash Will Create a Historic Gold Rush demonstrates the causal relationship between a deep economic crisis and a historical increase in the price of gold. Through the last years of his presidency Jimmy Carter struggled with the legacy of the OPEC oil embargo causing large lines at the gas pump to pay surging gasoline costs. After the 1973 embargo the price of oil quadrupled forcing the United States into a deep recession that lasted into 1975. Gold surged during this period of stagflation the unusual economic condition in which stagnant economic growth and high inflation coincide. In 1980 when Ronald Reagan was elected president gold hit a high of 843 ounce. In 2008-2009 the collapse of the subprime mortgage market and the bursting of the real estate bubble caused a Great Recession in which prestigious financial institutions failed across the globe and serious investors poured their money into gold to maintain their total asset value In 2010 gold's price hit a high of 1 426 ounce In the wake of the economic collapse caused by the COVID 19 lockdown gold hit a yearly high of 2 058 40 in 2020 on the way to an all time high of 2 074 60 on March 8 2022 The global economy faces an economic meltdown in 2023 the magnitude of which we have not seen since the Great Depression in the 1930s When the bubble in hedge funds and derivative contracts bursts financial institutions worldwide will have to absorb billions and possibly even trillions of dollars in losses an amount of money almost inconceivable in any other era of global financial history In this book Dean Heskin and Jerome R Corsi explain the reality of 2022 2023 the dollar may collapse and mounting unemployment and plummeting property values may accelerate the near disappearance of the middle class In the dystopian world we are entering gold and silver may be the only money that will hold its value Us-Subprime Crisis - to What Extent Can You Safeguard Financial System Risks? L.
