Daylight Science and Daylighting Technology Richard Kittler, Miroslav Kocifaj, Stanislav Darula, 2011-10-22 Sunlight profoundly influences the Earth's atmosphere and biosphere. Nature fuels the evolution of all living things, their visual systems, and the manner in which they adapt, accommodate, and habituate. Sun luminance measurements serve as data to calculate typical changes in the daily, monthly, and annual variability characteristics of daylight. Climate-based sky luminance patterns are used as models in predicting daylighting calculation and computer programs applied in architecture and building design. Historically, daylight science and daylighting technology has prioritized photometric methods of measurements calculation and graphical tools aimed at predicting or evaluating the daylighting of architectural design alternatives. However, due to a heightened awareness of general health and well-being, sunlight exposure and freedom from visual discomfort while undertaking visual tasks are now equally prioritized. Therefore, in order to assure optimal environmental quality, daylighting technology must be based on sound science. Daylight Science and Daylighting Technology by Richard Kittler, Miroslav Kocifaj, and Stanislav Darula sketches the entire evolution of daylight science from atmospheric science through apt visual workplace psychophysics. Teachers' Guide to Child Development Arch Oliver

Friedman, 2009-05-15 The research reported in this volume represents the second stage of a wide-ranging National Bureau of Economic Research effort to investigate The Changing Role of Debt and Equity in Financing U.S. Capital Formation. The first group of studies sponsored under this project, which have been published individually and summarized in a 1982 volume bearing the same title, Friedman 1982 addressed several key issues relevant to corporate sector behavior along with such other aspects of the evolving financial underpinnings of U.S. capital formation as household saving incentives, international capital flows, and government debt management. In the project's second series of studies presented at the National Bureau of Economic Research conference in January 1983 and published here for the first time along with commentaries from that conference, the central focus is the financial side of capital formation undertaken by the U.S. corporate business sector. At the same time, because corporations' securities must be held, a parallel focus is on the behavior of the markets that price these claims. Energy Education Materials Inventory: August 1979 University of Houston.
