Who Are We? Old, New, and Timeless Answers from Core Texts Robert D. Anderson, Molly Brigid Flynn, Scott J. Lee, 2011-05-04 In this volume the Association for Core Texts and Courses has gathered essays of literary and philosophical accounts that explain who we are simply as persons Further essays are included that highlight the person as entwined with other persons and examine who we are in light of communal ties The essays reflect both the Western experience of democracy and how community informs who we are more generally Our historical position in a modern or post modern urbanized or disenchanted world is explored by yet other papers And finally ACTC educators model the intellectual life for students and colleagues by showing how to read texts carefully and with sophistication as an example of who we can be

Classroom showcases ways in which GenSLA research can inform language pedagogy Some chapters include classroom research that tests the effectiveness of teaching particular linguistic phenomena Others review existing research findings discussing how these findings are useful for language pedagogy All chapters show how generative linguistics can enhance teachers expertise in language and second language development This groundbreaking volume ably takes on the gap that currently exists between generative linguistic theory in second language acquisition GenSLA and second language pedagogy by gathering chapters from GenSLA researchers who are interested in the relevance and potential application of their research to second foreign language teaching It offers a welcome and thought provoking contribution to any discussion of the relation between linguistic theory and practice I recommend it not only for language teachers interested in deepening their understanding of the formal properties of the languages they teach but also for linguists interested in following up on more practical consequences of the fruits of their theoretical and empirical research Donna Lardiere Georgetown University Washington DC USA

Reconsidering Olmec Visual Culture Carolyn E. Tate, 2012-01-18 Recently scholars of Olmec visual culture have identified symbols for umbilical cords bundles and cave wombs as well as a significant number of women portrayed on monuments and as figurines In this groundbreaking study Carolyn Tate demonstrates that these subjects were part of a major emphasis on gestational imagery in Formative Period Mesoamerica In Reconsidering Olmec Visual Culture she identifies the presence of women human embryos and fetuses in monuments and portable objects dating from 1400 to 400 BC and originating throughout much of Mesoamerica This highly original study sheds new light on the prominent roles that women and gestational beings played in Early Formative societies revealing female shamanic practices the generative concepts that motivated caching and bundling and the expression of feminine knowledge in the 260 day cycle and related divinatory and ritual activities Reconsidering Olmec Visual Culture is the first study that situates the unique hollow babies of Formative Mesoamerica within the context of prominent females and the prevalent imagery of gestation and birth It is also the first major art historical study of La Venta and the first to identify Mesoamerica s earliest creation narrative It provides a more nuanced understanding of how later societies including Teotihuacan and West Mexico as well as the Maya either rejected certain Formative Period visual forms rituals social roles and concepts or adopted and transformed them into the enduring themes of Mesoamerican symbol systems
