The Civilized Imagination Daniel Cottom, 1985-06-30 The Civilized Imagination is a study of literature in a period of cultural change. As part of the transition from the eighteenth to the nineteenth century a great transformation occurred in the relations among aesthetic theory literature and society. This study analyses such changes as they appear in the works of Ann Radcliffe Jane Austen and Sir Walter Scott three apparently distinct novelists whom the author locates within a unified cultural movement. Although the works of these writers are extremely different in many respects in Professor Cottom's view they are all preoccupied with the changing relation between aristocratic and middle class values. In Ann Radcliffe's works middle class values are beginning to emerge within a governing aristocratic context. In Jane Austen's novels these newer values are precariously balanced against the old. In Sir Walter Scott's books they have become victorious at least superficially. Professor Cottom examines the way these writers deal with such topics as taste landscape communications morality and women in order to show how certain aesthetic problems result from social change.

 Aber,2019-09-01 Hard Damage works to relentlessly interrogate the self and its shortcomings In lyric and documentary poems and essayistic fragments Aria Aber explores the historical and personal implications of Afghan American relations Drawing on material dating back to the 1950s she considers the consequences of these relations in particular the funding of the Afghan mujahedeen which led to the Taliban and modern day Islamic terrorism for her family and the world at large Invested in and suspicious of the pain of family and the shame of selfhood the speakers of these richly evocative and musical poems mourn the magnitude of citizenship as a state of place and a state of mind While Hard Damage is framed by free verse poetry the middle sections comprise a lyric essay in fragments and a long documentary poem Aber explores Rilke in the original German the urban melancholia of city life inherited trauma and displacement on both linguistic and environmental levels while employing surrealist and eerily domestic imagery Dictionary of World Biography Barry Jones,2021-09-16
