Daughters of Parvati Sarah Pinto, 2014-01-11 In her role as devoted wife the Hindu goddess Parvati

is the divine embodiment of viraha the agony of separation from one's beloved a form of love that is also intense suffering These contradictory emotions reflect the overlapping dissolutions of love family and mental health explored by Sarah Pinto in this visceral ethnography Daughters of Parvati centers on the lives of women in different settings of psychiatric care in northern India particularly the contrasting environments of a private mental health clinic and a wing of a government hospital Through an anthropological consideration of modern medicine in a nonwestern setting Pinto challenges the dominant framework for addressing crises such as long term involuntary commitment poor treatment in homes scarcity of licensed practitioners heavy use of pharmaceuticals and the ways psychiatry may reproduce constraining social conditions Inflected by the author's own experience of separation and single motherhood during her fieldwork Daughters of Parvati urges us to think about the ways women bear the consequences of the vulnerabilities of love and family in their minds bodies and social worlds

Huntsman Clare London, 2024-11-16 Swipe left on the Big Bad Wolf Hugo is a successful London lawyer fiercely driven habitually short tempered scornful of all things Christmas and also extremely miserable Until recently he was dating Davy his cute and ultra efficient PA For Hugo never very good at social interaction let alone romance it was a hot exciting and surprisingly loving time But after a heated argument put them at odds they've now reverted to a purely professional relationship Alone with the holiday season looming Hugo is determined to cope with it all as a mature professional man He's just not sure he's succeeding Davy is also still reeling from the breakup with his grumpy boss He'd been falling hard for Hugo's clever wit and quiet charm hidden under all that crankiness and eagerly looking forward to spending Christmas with his lover if he could only persuade Hugo to put up the appropriate decorations but it wasn't to be His PA job and his relationship with Hugo were the best things in his life but the argument knocked both his pride and his confidence and it's far better now to concentrate solely on his career He's sure this is the right decision Definitely Probably A new dating app called HuntsMan seems promising to help Davy move on but each date is worse than the last What wandering eyes they have what selective hearing they have and wait is that guy actually trying to sniff Davy When the final bad date with the sharp shiny teeth turns out to be way too predatory for comfort Davy realises how much he needs and misses Hugo Will there be a second chance for them both More importantly will it come in time to save Davy from the Big Bad Wolf
