The Of Lists:

The Charm of a List Lucie Doležalová, 2009-01-14 Lists one of the most archaic literary genres stand behind many of our complex mental or rhetorical structures and they often influence the way we conceptualize the world even if we are unaware of it They seem plain but may conceal a complicated inner logic They are agrammatical but may tell a story Their basic features selection order and layout may be enough to give them enormous power by including they exclude by ordering they create a hierarchy by taking on particular physical aspects they place themselves into a specific context These and other issues are discussed in the present transdisciplinary volume collecting the best revised contributions to a workshop on lists held at the Center for Theoretical Study in Prague in November 2008 Each of the 13 articles by researchers from seven countries provides a case study on the subject of list The fields covered include late antique medieval and early modern history philology philosophy cognitive and computer science The contributors aim both at presenting particular cases specific lists or list types and at the same time at addressing methodological issues exploring the ways of researching lists in their particular disciplines formulating relevant research themes and questions contextualizing the subject Since theoretical discourse on lists has not been established yet this volume should be seen as a first step in the process showing the variety of possible research directions on a transdisciplinary level and raising interest in the topic which although it may seem a bit obscure at first has indeed a lot to offer and University Access for Young People Valerie Harwood, Anna Hickey-Moody, Samantha McMahon, Sarah O'Shea, 2016-12-01 Young people with tenuous relationships to schooling and education are an enduring challenge when it comes to addressing social inclusion yet their experiences remain overlooked in efforts to widen participation in higher education The Politics of Widening Participation and University Access for Young People examines the existing knowledges and feelings these young people have about higher education and through the authors empirical research demonstrates how sustained connections to educational futures can be created for them Drawing from an empirical study with nearly three hundred young people who have precarious relationships to schooling and live in disadvantaged communities this book offers new insights into their subjects experiences of educational disadvantages It explains the different ways the university is constructed as impossible undesirable or even risky by young people experiencing educational disadvantage The book brings their stories into focus to offer new ways of thinking about the educational consequences of alienation from school It shows how our understanding of the politics of experience of these young people has an important impact on our ability to develop appropriate means through which to engage them in higher education This book challenges and significantly advances the popular frames for international debate on widening participation and the ethical right to educational participation in contemporary society As such it will be of key interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of higher education sociology of education anthropology of education cultural studies of education sociology as well as to those concerned by the impact of disadvantage on young people s understandings of and aspirations towards education and attending university
