

3. Marking points

3.1 Marking of lists

This applies to questions requiring a set number of responses, but for which students have provided extra responses. The general principle to be followed in such a situation is that 'right + wrong = wrong'.

Each error / contradiction negates each correct response. So, if the number of errors / contradictions equals or exceeds the number of marks available for the question, no marks can be awarded.

However, responses considered to be neutral (indicated as * in example 1) are not penalised.

Example 1: What is the pH of an acidic solution?

[1 mark]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	green, 5	0
2	red*, 5	1
3	red*, 8	0

Example 2: Name two magnetic materials.

[2 marks]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	iron, steel, aluminium, copper	2

3.2 Marking of questions requiring a list

For questions requiring a specified number of responses (marked as a specified number of marks), an error / contradiction in a response negates all responses. For example, for a question requiring two marks, if the student provides three answers, each answer is penalised.

3.3 Marking questions requiring calculation

Errors in calculation are penalised for each stage of the calculation completed correctly. An incorrect final calculation is shown from working. An error made in a calculation (students may show steps from their working) is a calculation error. If a calculation error is given correctly, the relevant marks may be awarded.

Final marks are only awarded for a correct final answer from incorrect working.

3.4 Interpretation of 'or'

Answers using the word 'or' should be given credit only if it is clear that this is either a list or a correct answer.
