A Shakespeare Manual for Schools W. A. Illsley, 2015-10 Originally published in 1957 this book aimed to provide a self contained introduction to the works of William Shakespeare assessing his works thematically structurally and linguistically The first half of the book covers themes such as the tragic hero comic relief and the part of the fool as well as more technical topics such as the structure of the plays and figures of speech whilst the latter half contains study and examination materials supplying copious context questions character studies and inquiries into plot The book also discusses the Modern and Elizabethan theatres and supplies a full list of Shakespeare's plays as well as recommendations for further reading. Intended as a reliable introduction to Shakespeare for students, this book will also be useful for Shakespearean scholars and scholars in cognate fields such as education and history. Journal of Studies in Language & Literature, 2001. Readings in Gender in Africa Andrea Cornwall, 2005. This is a comprehensive overview on the existing literature on gender in Africa. It covers areas such as Western perceptions, colonial morality, religion, and politics. Journal of the Nigeria English Studies Association Nigeria English Studies Association, 1970. Tradition, Modernity and Post-modernity in Comparative Education Vandra Masemann, Anthony Welch, 1998-01-31. This special double issue consists of a selection of papers presented at the Ninth World Congress of Comparative Education held at the University of Sydney, Australia, in July 1996, on the theme of Tradition, Modernity, and Post-modernity in Comparative Education. Before presenting the selection, this introduction will first survey the changing discourse in comparative education over the past few decades and will argue that an unreformulated and uncritical postmodernity holds no greater promise in comparative education than its uncritical modernist or tradition-oriented rivals. When Nicholas Hans (1949) cited Michael Sadler's early rationale for studying comparative education, it was within the context of a work which sought to identify the traditions that underlay national educational systems. This early work, together with others such as that by Isaac Kandel (1930), was predicated on the assumption of the importance of national character, of which education systems were an important component. Indeed, from this perspective, the purpose of comparative education was not merely to analyse the forces and factors which produced differences among educational systems, but implicitly at least also to discover the underlying principles which govern the development of all national systems of education. Hans (1949: 5) was preeminently an historian, of course, as was Kandel, to an extent, and therefore saw comparative education first and foremost in this light.
