The Cambridge History of Black and Asian British Writing Susheila Nasta, Mark U. Stein, 2020-01-16 The Cambridge History of Black and Asian British Writing provides a comprehensive historical overview of the diverse literary traditions impacting on this field's evolution from the eighteenth century to the present. Drawing on the expertise of over forty international experts, this book gathers innovative scholarship to look forward to new readings and perspectives while also focusing on undervalued writers' texts and research areas. Creating new pathways to engage with the naming of a field that has often been contested, readings of literary texts are interwoven throughout with key political, social, and material contexts. In making visible the diverse influences constituting past and contemporary British literary culture, this Cambridge History makes a unique contribution to British Commonwealth, postcolonial, transnational, diasporic, and global literary studies, serving both as one of the first major reference works to cover four centuries of black and Asian British literary history and as a compass for future scholarship.

Music and Identity in Postcolonial British South-Asian Literature Christin Hoene, 2014-08-27 This book examines the role of music in British South Asian postcolonial literature, asking how music relates to the construction of postcolonial identity. It focuses on novels that explore the postcolonial condition in India, Pakistan, and the United Kingdom: Vikram Seth's A Suitable Boy, Amit Chaudhuri's Afternoon Raag, Suhayl Saadi's Psychoraag, Hanif Kureishi's The Buddha of Suburbia, and Salman Rushdie's The Ground Beneath Her Feet, with reference to other texts such as E. M. Forster's A Passage to India and Vikram Seth's An Equal Music. The analyzed novels feature different kinds of music, from Indian classical to non-classical traditions and from Western classical music to pop music and rock n' roll. Music is depicted as a cultural artifact and as a purely aestheticized art form at the same time. As a cultural artifact, music derives meaning from its socio-cultural context of production and serves as a frame of reference to explore postcolonial identities on their own terms. As purely aesthetic art, music escapes its contextual meaning. The transgressive qualities of music render it capable of expressing identities irrespective of origin and politics of location. Thereby, music in the novels marks a very productive space to imagine the postcolonial nation and to rewrite imperial history, to express the cultural hybridity of characters in between nations, to analyze the state of the nation and life in the multicultural diaspora of contemporary Great Britain, and to explore the ramifications of cultural globalization versus cultural imperialism. It will be a useful research and teaching tool for those interested in postcolonial literature, music studies, cultural studies, contemporary literature, and South Asian literature.

Black British Literature Mark Stein, 2004 In this fascinating book Mark Stein examines black British literature centering on a body of work created by British based writers with African South Asian or Caribbean cultural backgrounds Linking black British literature to the bildungsroman genre this study examines the transformative potential inscribed in and induced by a heterogeneous body of texts Capitalizing on their plural cultural attachments these texts portray and purvey the transformation of post imperial Britain Stein locates his wide ranging analysis in both a historical and a literary context He argues that a cross cultural and interdisciplinary approach is essential to understanding post colonial culture and society The book relates black British literature to ongoing debates about cultural diversity and thereby offers a way of reading a highly popular but as yet relatively uncharted field of cultural production With the collapse of its empire with large scale immigration from former colonies and with ever increasing cultural diversity Britain underwent a fundamental makeover in the second half of the twentieth century This volume cogently argues that black British literature is not only a commentator on and a reflector of this makeover but that it is simultaneously an agent that is integral to the processes of cultural and social change Conceptualizing the novel of transformation this comprehensive study of British black literature provides a compelling analytic framework for charting these processes
