House documents ,1882 Catholics and Contraception

Leslie Woodcock Tentler, 2018-09-05

As Americans rethought sex in the twentieth century the Catholic Church's teachings on the divisive issue of contraception in marriage were in many ways central. In a fascinating history, Leslie Woodcock Tentler traces changing attitudes from the late nineteenth century when religious leaders of every variety were largely united in their opposition to contraception to the 1920s when distillations of Freud and the works of family planning reformers like Margaret Sanger began to reach a popular audience to the Depression years during which even conservative Protestant denominations quietly dropped prohibitions against marital birth control. Catholics and Contraception carefully examines the intimate dilemmas of pastoral counseling in matters of sexual conduct. Tentler makes it clear that uneasy negotiations were always necessary between clerical and lay authority. As the Catholic Church found itself isolated in its strictures against contraception and the object of damaging rhetoric in the public debate over legal birth control, support of the Church's teachings on contraception became a mark of Catholic identity for better and for worse. Tentler draws on evidence from pastoral literature, sermons, lay writings, private correspondence, and interviews with fifty-six priests ordained between 1938 and 1968, concluding the recent history of American Catholicism can only be understood by taking birth control into account.
