The Reformed David(s) and the Question of Resistance to Tyranny Nevada Levi DeLapp,2014-08-28 This study centers on the question how do particular readers read a biblical passage What factors govern each reading DeLapp here attempts to set up a test case for observing how both socio historical and textual factors play a part in how a person reads a biblical text Using a reception historical methodology he surveys five Reformed authors and their readings of the David and Saul story primarily 1 Sam 24 and 26 From this survey two interrelated phenomena emerge First all the authors find in David an ideal model for civic praxis a Davidic social imaginary Charles Taylor Second despite this primary agreement the authors display two different reading trajectories when discussing David's relationship with Saul Some read the story as showing a persecuted exile who refuses to offer active resistance against a tyrannical monarch Others read the story as exemplifying active defensive resistance against a tyrant To account for this convergence and divergence in the readings DeLapp argues for a two fold conclusion The authors are influenced both by their socio historical contexts and by the shape of the biblical text itself Given a Deuteronomic frame conducive to the social imaginary the paradigmatic narratives of 1 Sam 24 and 26 offer a narrative gap never resolved The story never makes explicit to the reader what David is doing in the wilderness in relation to King Saul As a result the authors fill in the gap in ways that accord with their own socio historical experiences
