Abstract

Abstract: Streptococcus pneumoniae is a leading cause of death in children worldwide. In the United States, pneumococcal conjugate vaccine (PCV) is recommended for all children under 2 years of age. However, PCV coverage is suboptimal in many countries, and the impact of PCV on the burden of pneumococcal disease in children is unclear. We conducted a case-control study in the United States to estimate the impact of PCV on the burden of pneumococcal disease in children under 2 years of age. The study was conducted in the United States between 1998 and 2000. The study population consisted of children under 2 years of age who were hospitalized with pneumococcal disease.
