Frouws, J. A. Watkins, Tshwane University of Technology. Business School, 2007. Currently one of the most serious challenges faced by South African Universities is the fact that less than a quarter of tertiary students graduate after five years. The objective of this research study is to determine the various reasons why master students do not complete their studies in the prescribed time duration. It is predicted that the outcome of this research will point to the fact that there is a positive correlation between proposal formulation, supervisor support and other associated factors and the success of masters students.

Curriculum Development for Northern Sotho in Journalism Studies Dorothy Nyembe, 2016. The study focuses on curriculum development for northern sotho in journalism studies. It is a case study at a university in Gauteng province. The course Journalism studies offers sotho North level 1 130T as an additional subject which is the third language taught to train students to communicate. Prospectus 2016 34. The primary aim of the study was to determine if students would be able to communicate effectively in Sotho North level 1 at the end of the year. The main problem focused on in this study was the writing skills. The researcher used a moderate social constructivist lens to emphasise the role of caregiving in communication and equipment of the students when learning sotho North level 1. Tailoring the curriculum to the students' needs forms part of the lecturers' endeavour to support the students. The study investigated the causes of the challenges the participating journalism students experienced. The findings of scholars and their recommendations highlight that time allocation for learning a third or second language should be extended to a longer period in order to ensure the needed basic communication skills.
