The Politics and Governance of Basic Education Brian Levy, Robert Cameron, Ursula Hoadley, Vinothan Naidoo, 2018-09-05

This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence. It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations. All over the world economic inclusion has risen to the top of the development discourse. A well performing education system is central to achieving inclusive development but the challenge of improving educational outcomes has proven to be unexpectedly difficult. Access to education has increased but quality remains low with weaknesses in governance comprising an important part of the explanation. The Politics and Governance of Basic Education explores the balance between hierarchical and horizontal institutional arrangements for the public provision of basic education. Using the vivid example of South Africa, a country that had ambitious goals at the outset of its transition from apartheid to democracy, it explores how the interaction of politics and institutions affects educational outcomes. By examining lessons learned from how South Africa failed to achieve many of its goals, it constructs an innovative alternative strategy for making process combining practical steps to achieve incremental gains to re-orient the system towards learning. Research for Educational Change Jill Adler, Anna Sfard, 2016-06-17

Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice. Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education, it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching, the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident. The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice. In the first part of the book, four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom. In the second part, each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms. Combining two discourses, that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice, the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education, educational research and classroom practices. This book will be key reading for postgraduates, researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education, education research, teacher education and classroom practice. It will also appeal to teacher educators, practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research. Daily Graphic Ransford

School Turnaround in Secondary Schools Coby V. Meyers, Marlene J. Darwin, 2019-12-01 In the continuing quest to turnaround the lowest performing schools rapid and sustainable reform or school turnaround seems most elusive for secondary schools Secondary schools are rife with challenges due to their wide ranging mission and organizational complexity With the continued emphasis on college and career readiness and the vast learning possibilities enhanced by technology our third book in this series Contemporary Perspectives on School Turnaround and Reform focuses on rapid school turnaround and reform in secondary schools In this edited volume researchers and scholars consider the doubly perplexing challenge of school turnaround or the rapid improvement of the lowest performing secondary schools Although there is some evidence that school turnaround policy can impact student achievement scores research across international contexts seldom identifies schools that substantially changed student learning trajectories and sustained them Separately many societies have found improving secondary schools a relatively intractable problem for multiple reasons including school size and complexity the micropolitics of teaching and leading within them and cumulative widening student achievement gaps In combination there are almost no examples of low performing secondary schools turning around The chapters in this book begin to offer some hope about how policymakers practitioners and researchers might begin to reconceptualize how they engage in and undertake the work of rapidly improving low performing secondary schools The authors provide theoretical and conceptual advancements offer lessons learned from both successful and unsuccessful initiatives and address practical issues with potentially accessible ways forward

Leading Change in Teacher Education Thuwayba Al Barwani, Maria Assunção Flores, David Imig, 2018-12-12 The international attempt to expand schooling despite dealing with an insufficient number of trained teachers has placed significant pressure on teacher education Continued effort to change all aspects of teacher education including ways of learning methods of practice institution interaction and assessment of teaching ability in order to fulfil the desire to offer inclusive and equitable teaching for all is a serious consideration In response to this increased attention on cross national campaigns Leading Change in Teacher Education features discussions covering what has been done how and why the change has happened the journey itself and the challenges encountered along the way alongside contributions from international academics who share their reflections and suggestions for a way forward despite a global
