The History of Neuroscience in Autobiography Larry R. Squire, 2011-09-09 The seventh volume of The History of Neuroscience in Autobiography is a collection of autobiographical essays by distinguished senior neuroscientists in which they recount the events that shaped their lives and identify the mentors and colleagues who inspired them. The narratives provide a human dimension to the world of scientific research.

A Story Lately Told Anjelica Huston, 2013-11-19 Anjelica Huston's life once she turned 15 and moved to London is a who's who of popular culture from the Rolling Stones in late 60s London to the Chelsea Hotel in New York when she was modelling in the early 70s to Jack Nicholson and Warren Beatty in 70s and 80s Los Angeles to Hunter Thompson in Aspen. She is a force who has won every possible acting award working with some of the greatest directors of her time and a friend to many of the greatest artists, writers, actors, and musicians. One could say it was a charmed life, an enviable life, and she would agree. But it is a life also full of so much tragedy and sadness, and Huston writes about both triumph and hardship with extraordinary eloquence and depth. A stunning achievement, her memoir ranks among the best in the genre.

Losing the Precious Few Richard Tapia, 2022-04-30 A professor for almost 50 years in Rice University's Department of Computational and Applied Mathematics, nationally acclaimed scholar Richard Tapia is struck by the number of Chinese students in the hallways and wonders how the United States can remain globally competitive. Tapia asserts it is critical to the nation's health and well-being to improve the representation of the precious few or domestic minority groups in STEM education and careers. African Americans and Latinos alone make up 31% of the population, and he writes the country cannot maintain its economic and scientific health when such a large part of the population is left out of science and engineering. In addition, he contends the United States will not have racial justice without educational justice. Underrepresented groups must have equal access to higher education. This thought-provoking book examines issues that contribute to the lack of minorities in graduate STEM programs, including a dependence on standardized tests, deficiencies in K-12 education, and historic and ongoing racism. As a long-time mentor, he has seen first-hand that professors have lower expectations of these students. In a survey of Rice University faculty, only 6% agreed that underrepresented minorities have talent in the field of study. Unfortunately, professors often interpret poor performance for lack of ability despite the undoubtable fact that most of these students have not had the same quality education as their Anglo peers and are therefore not as well prepared Providing a road map to increase the representation of domestic minority learners in academia and STEM fields this is a must read for university administrators and professors who want to attract and retain a diverse student body In addition Tapia includes advice for students their parents and teachers who will also benefit from his wisdom and years of experience serving as a mentor to those from diverse backgrounds Complete Book of Colleges, 2005 Edition Princeton Review (Firm),2004-07-20 Up to date information on 1 780 colleges and universities Resources in Education ,1994 Journal of Education and School World ,1886 The College Sourcebook for Students with Learning & Developmental Differences Midge Lipkin,2009 Who's who in America John W.
