Mothers-in-Law and Daughters-in-Law Deborah M. Merrill,2007-09-30 We all know have perhaps told a few stories about mothers in law and daughters in law It seems the stories are nearly always about relationships filled with conflict and abrasive words or actions But why is this relationship so difficult And is it always as bad as popular belief would have us think Deborah Merrill a woman s advocate and Sociology professor at one of our nation s top universities has been studying the relationship for nearly a decade and in this book explains where the difficulty is rooted how friendly pairs have made it past problems that surface between a man s mother and his wife and how they became friends Dozens of interviews with pairs of women made in laws by marriage illustrate Merrill s points from harmful ideas and actions to helpful approaches At its core this book holds that marriage requires the creation of a new and separate family which requires changes in roles as well as a redefinition of relationships Hence family boundaries need to be made permeable to allow for integration of the daughter in law and to allow the son to create his own separate and autonomous family Family members need to be aware of and prepare for this says Merrill That of course may be easier said than done But dozens of women who have become friends with their in laws some so much so that they drop the in law and just call each other mother and daughter explain how they got past the old popular notions and social structure to create goodwill and grow stronger families

International Law and Child Soldiers

Gus Waschefort, 2014-12-04 This book commences with an analysis of the current state of child soldiering internationally Thereafter the proscriptive content of contemporary norms on the prohibition of the use and recruitment of child soldiers is evaluated so as to determine whether these norms are capable of better enforcement An issues based approach is adopted in terms of which no specific regime of law such as international humanitarian law IHL is deemed dominant Instead universal and regional human rights law international criminal law and IHL are assessed cumulatively so as to create a mutually reinforcing web of protection Ultimately it is argued that the effective implementation of child soldier prohibitive norms does not require major changes to any entity or functionary engaged in such prevention rather it requires the constant reassessment and refinement of all such entities and functionaries and here some changes are suggested International judicial quasi judicial and non judicial entities and functionaries most relevant to child soldier prevention are critically assessed Ultimately the conclusions reached are assessed in light of a case study on the use and recruitment of child soldiers in the Democratic Republic of the Congo
