South Asia Development Update, April 2025 Weltbank, 2025 Growth prospects for South Asia have dimmed The global economic environment has become more challenging and is a source of heightened downside risks After a decade of repeated disruptions South Asia s buffers to cushion new shocks are slim Tackling some of its greatest inefficiencies and vulnerabilities could help South Asia navigate this unusually uncertain outlook unproductive agricultural sectors dependence on energy imports pressures from rising global temperatures and fragile fiscal positions For most South Asian countries increased revenue mobilization is a prerequisite for strengthening fiscal positions Even taking into account the particular challenges of collecting taxes in South

Asian economies such as widespread informal economic activity and large agriculture sectors South Asian economies face larger tax gaps than the average emerging market and developing economy EMDE This suggests the need for improved tax policy and administration Until fiscal positions have strengthened the burden of climate adaptation will disproportionately fall on the private sector If allowed sufficient flexibility private sector adaptation could offset about one third of the likely climate damage by 2050 This may however require governments to remove obstacles that prevent workers and firms from moving across locations and activities As growth prospects dim the challenge grows to create jobs for South Asia s rapidly expanding working age population South Asia s large diasporas could become a source of strength if their knowledge networks and other resources can be better tapped for investment and trade

Southeast Asia and the Rise of Chinese and Indian Naval Power
 Sam Bateman, Joshua Ho, 2014-06-03 This book examines the emerging maritime security scene in Southeast Asia. It considers highly topical implications for the region of possible strategic competition between China and India, the rising naval powers of Asia, with a possible naval arms race emerging between these countries, both with naval force development and operations. As part of its Look East policy, India has deployed naval units to the Pacific Ocean for port visits and exercises, both with East Asian navies and the US Navy, but India is also concerned about the possibility of the Chinese Navy operating in the Indian Ocean. Even as the US-India defence relationship continues to deepen, the US and China are struggling to build closer links. China's and India's strategic interests overlap in this region, both in maritime strategic competition or conflict, which might be played out in the Bay of Bengal, the Malacca and Singapore Straits, and the South China Sea. The sea lines of communication (SLOCs) through Southeast Asian waters constitute vital choke points between the Indian and Pacific Oceans, carrying essential energy supplies for China and other Northeast Asian countries. Any strategic competition between China and India has implications for other major maritime players in the Pacific and Indian Oceans, especially Australia, the Republic of Korea, and Japan, as well as the US. This book identifies possible cooperative and confidence building measures that may contribute to enhanced relations between these two major powers and dampen down the risks associated with their strategic competition.
