newspapers Critical Issues in South African Education After 1994 Thobeka Vuyelwa Mda, Matoane Steward Mothata, 2000 This title seeks to provide a reflection on the transformation of South Africa's education system. It traces the rationale behind various acts and policies, takes a critical look at the realities of implementation, and offers projections regarding possible future directions.

Between Worlds Linda Chisholm, 2017-11-30 How the story of how missionary schools adopted the Bantu education reforms gives insight into the ongoing legacy of the apartheid in the South African educational system. The transition from apartheid to the post-apartheid era has highlighted questions about the past and the persistence of its influence in present-day South Africa. This is particularly so in education where the past continues to play a decisive role in relation to inequality. Between Worlds: German Missionaries and the Transition from Mission to Bantu Education in South Africa scrutinises the experience of a hitherto unexplored German mission society probing the complexities and paradoxes of social change in education. It raises challenging questions about the nature of mission education legacies. Linda Chisholm shows that the transition from mission to Bantu Education was far from seamless. Instead, past and present interpenetrated one another with resistance and compliance cohabiting in a complex new social order. At the same time as missionaries complied with the new Bantu Education, they sought to secure a role for themselves in the face of demands of local communities for secular state-controlled education. When the latter was implemented in a perverted form from the mid 1950s, one of its tools was textbooks in local languages developed by mission societies as part of a transnational project with African participation. Introduced under the guise of expunging European control, Bantu Education merely served to reinforce such control. The response of local communities was an attempt to domesticate and master the foreign body of the mission so as to create access to a larger world. This book focuses on the ensuing struggle fought on many fronts including medium of instruction and textbook content with concomitant subtexts relating to gender roles and sexuality. South Africa's educational history is to this day informed by networks of people and ideas crossing geographic and racial boundaries. The colonial legacy has inevitably involved cultural mixing and hybridisation with paradoxically parallel pleas for purity. Chisholm explores how these ideas found expression in colliding and coalescing worlds: one African, the other European, caught between mission and apartheid education.

A Directory of Archival Repositories in South Africa, 1999 Identification and Citizenship in Africa Séverine Awenengo Dalberto, Richard Banégas, 2021-05-09 In the context of a global biometric turn, this book investigates processes of legal identification in Africa from below, asking what this means for the relationship between citizens and the state. Almost half of the population of the African continent is thought to lack a legal identity, and many states see biometric technology as a reliable and efficient solution to the problem. However, this book shows that biometrics far from securing identities and avoiding fraud or political distrust can even participate in reinforcing exclusion and polarizing debates on citizenship and national belonging. It highlights the social and political embedding of legal identities and the resilience of the documentary state. Drawing on empirical research conducted across 14 countries, the book documents the processes practices and meanings of legal identification in Africa from the 1950s right up to the biometric boom Beyond the classic opposition between surveillance and recognition it demonstrates how analysing the social uses of IDs and tools of identification can give a fresh account of the state at work the practices of citizenship and the role of bureaucracy in the writing of the self in African societies This book will be of an important reference for students and scholars of African studies politics human security and anthropology and the sociology of the state Marking Matric Vijay Reddy,2006 The past ten years in South Africa has seen many changes in education the creation of a single department of education common examinations for all learners in public schools in the country a new outcomes based education curriculum which was introduced to learners in the general education and training phase since 1998 and will be introduced to the further education and training phase from 2006 To evaluate the success of these changes South African researchers still use the indicator of student achievement The matriculation examination is the visible high profile and public performance indicator Every year parents learners teachers researchers government officials policymakers and the general public get involved in the debate around the matric examination with the most frequently asked questions being Did the pass rate go up Are standards dropping Are the results real or have they been manipulated How is our education system doing Are we meeting the development goals What should the matriculation examination of the future look like participants from government national and provincial

South African Schooling: The Enigma of Inequality Nic Spaull,Jonathan D. Jansen,2019-11-05 This volume brings together many of South Africa's leading scholars of education and covers the full range of South African schooling from financing and policy reform to in depth discussions of literacy numeracy teacher development and curriculum change The book moves beyond a historical analysis and provides an inside view of the questions South African scholars are now grappling with Are there different and preferential equilibria we have not yet thought of or explored and if so what are they In practical terms how does one get to a more equitable distribution of teachers resources and learning outcomes While decidedly local these questions resonate throughout the developing world South Africa today is the most unequal country in the world The richest 10% of South Africans lay claim to 65% of national income and 90% of national wealth This is the largest 90/10 gap in the world and one that is reflected in the schooling system Two decades after apartheid it is still the case that the life chances of most South African children are determined not by their ability or the result of hard work and determination but instead by the colour of their skin the province of their birth and the wealth of their parents Looking back on almost three decades of democracy in South Africa it is this stubbornness of inequality and its patterns of persistence that demands explanation justification and analysis This is a landmark book on basic education in South Africa an essential volume for those interested in learning outcomes and their inequality in South Africa The various chapters present conceptually and empirically sophisticated analyses of learning outcomes across divisions of race class and place The book brings together the wealth of decades of research output from top quality researchers to explore what has improved what has not and why Prof Lant Pritchett Harvard University There is much wisdom in this collection from many of the best education analysts in South Africa No surprise that they conclude that without a large and sustained expansion in well trained teachers early childhood education and adequate school resources South Africa will continue to sacrifice its people's future to maintaining the privileges of the few Prof Martin Carnoy Stanford University Altogether one can derive from this very valuable volume if not an exact blueprint for the future then certainly at least a crucial and evidence based itinerary for the next few steps Dr Luis Crouch RTI x-kit exam 2004 mathematics Bryony Poulter,2005 X-kit Exam 2004 Physical Science,2005 Kaapse bibliotekaris,2012 Issues for Nov 1957 include section Accessions Aanwinste Sept 1957 A Directory of Archival Repositories in South Africa National Archives and Records Service of South Africa,2005

Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014 Maringe, Felix,Prew, Martin,2015-05-05 Twenty Years of Education Transformation in Gauteng 1994 to 2014 An Independent Review presents a collection of 15 important essays on different aspects of education in Gauteng since the advent of democracy in 1994 These essays talk to what a provincial education department does and how and why it does these things whether it be about policy resourcing or implementing projects Each essay is written by one or more specialist in the relevant focus area The book is written to be accessible to the general reader as well as being informative and an essential resource for the specialist reader It sheds light on aspects of how a provincial department operates and why and with what consequences certain decisions have been made in education over the last 20 turbulent years both nationally and provincially There has been no attempt to fit the book's chapters into a particular ideological or educational paradigm and as a result the reader will find differing views on various aspects of the Gauteng Department of Education's present and past We leave the reader to decide to what extent the GDE has fulfilled its educational mandate over the last 20 years "The" English Catalogue of Books,1900 World Yearbook of Education 2003 Jill Bourne,Euan Reid,2003-12-16 The issues raised by the role of language in education are some of the most important and contentious faced by education systems across the globe Language is embedded in the concepts of nationhood and identity and is therefore directly linked to the very social and political fabric of a country In a climate of increasing globalisation development and mobility of populations nations around the world are concerned with the tension between cultivating a sense of cultural and linguistic cohesion and making use of the linguistic diversity that exists in every country and region This book examines the implications and impacts the dilemmas and potential for language education in relation to education systems and wider society Split into three key parts it considers current issues in language education including the role of language in maintaining power and inequalities in encouraging participation and inclusion and in challenging the status quo different approaches to language education around the world the potential for language to provide opportunities for the disadvantaged illustrated by case studies of three cities This recent volume of the internationally respected World Yearbook of Education continues the tradition of offering a wide range of international perspectives from leading commentators on a universal concern The material amassed here will be essential reading for teacher educators education researchers and school leaders across the world
