and Heidegger to argue that there is a need for rethinking the idea of a cosmological whole. By moving away from the quest for certainty, Froese suggests a way of philosophizing that does not seek to capture the whole but rather becomes a means of affirming a connection to it, one that celebrates difference rather than eradicating it. Human beings have a vague awareness of the infinite but they are nevertheless finite beings. Froese maintains that rather than bemoaning the murkiness of knowledge, the thinkers considered here celebrate the creativity and tendency to wander through that space of not knowing or in-between-ness. However, for Nietzsche and the early Heidegger, this in-between-ness can often produce a sense of meaninglessness that sends individuals on a frenetic quest to mark out space that is uniquely their own. Laozi and Zhuangzi, on the other hand, paint a portrait of the self that provides openings for others rather than deliberately forging an identity that it can claim as its own. In this way, human beings can become joyful wanderers that revel in the movements of the Dao and are comfortable with their own finitude. Froese also suggests that Nietzsche and Heidegger are philosophers at a crossroads for they both exemplify the modern emphasis on self-creation and at the same time share the Daoist insight into the perils of excessive egoism that can lead to misguided attempts to master the world.

psyche and the cosmos at large Jung proposed a profound truth that time is relative at large To appreciate the whole of our experience we must reach beyond causality and temporal linearity to develop an approach that allows for multidimensional and synchronistic experiences Jung's understanding surpassed Freud's dichotomous approach which restricted timelessness to the unconscious his time theory allows us to reach beyond the everyday time bound world into a greater realm rich with meaning and connection Included in the book Jung's time theory the death of time time and spatial metaphors the role of time in precognition telepathy and synchronicity Unus mundus and time a comparison of Freud's and Jung's time theories temporal directionality dimensionality and the role of timelessness This book is the first to explore time and timelessness in a systematic manner from a Jungian perspective and the first to investigate how the concept of time affected the overall development of Jung's theory It will be key reading for psychoanalytic scholars and clinicians as well as those working in the field of phenomenological philosophy
