South Africa's Post-Apartheid Military Lindy Heineken, 2020-01-01 This timely book examines how the South African National Defence Force has adapted to the country's new security political and social environment since 1994. In South Africa's changed political state, how has civilian control of the military been implemented and what does this mean for defence in a democracy? This book presents an overview of the security environment, how the mission focus of the military has changed and the implications for force procurement, force preparation, force employment and force sustainability. The author addresses other issues such as the effect of integrating former revolutionary soldiers into a professional armed force, the effect of affirmative action on meritocracy, recruitment and retention of military veterans, looking at the difficulties they face in reintegrating back into society and finding gainful employment, gender equality and mainstreaming the rise of military unions and why a confrontational instead of a more corporatist approach to labour relations has emerged. HIV/AIDS and the consequences this holds for the military in terms of its operational effectiveness. In closing, the author highlights key events that have caused the SANDF to become lost in transition and transformation, spelling out some lessons learned. The conclusions she draws are pertinent for the future of defence security and civil-military relations of countries around the world.

Women and the Military Ruth Margolies Beitler, Sarah M. Gerstein, 2021-04-07 This addition to the Women and Society around the World series explores the roles, challenges, and accomplishments of women in the military in countries across the globe. Around the world, millions of men serve in their countries' militaries, be it on land, on the seas, or in the air. But while many militaries have opened all positions to women, even those on the front lines, others remain closed. Countries have cited a number of reasons for their policies, including changing views of women and the military, conscription, and economic and demographic trends. Written by a professor of comparative politics at the United States Military Academy at West Point and an active-duty army major, this book seeks to provide an understanding of women's roles in militaries around the world. The book is organized by region, exploring societal and cultural views of masculinity and war, as well as factors influencing changing views of women and the military, including conscription and economic and demographic trends. Topics also include sexual harassment, recruitment, and views on women's physicality and strength. High school students, undergraduates, and general readers will find this cross-cultural study a fascinating and important resource.

The Nuclear Terrorism Threat Brecht Volders,2021-07-08 This book examines the threat of a terrorist organisation constructing and detonating a nuclear bomb It explores the role and impact of the organisational design of a terrorist organisation in implementing a nuclear terrorism plot In order to do so the work builds on the organisational analogy between an assumed nuclear terrorism scenario and four case studies as follows the construction of the first atomic bombs at Los Alamos South Africa s Peaceful Nuclear Explosives PNE program Aum Shinrikyo s chemical biological armament activities and Al Qaeda s implementation of the 9 11 attacks Extrapolating insights from these case studies this book introduces the idea of an effectiveness efficiency trade off On the one hand it will be argued that a more organic organisational design is likely to benefit the effective implementation of a nuclear terrorism project On the other hand this type of organic organisational design is also likely to simultaneously constitute an inefficient way for a terrorist organisation to guarantee its operational and organisational security It follows then that the implementation of a nuclear terrorism plot via an organic organisational design is also likely to be an inefficient strategy for a terrorist organisation to achieve its strategic and political goals This idea of an effectiveness efficiency trade off provides us with a tool to strengthen the comprehensive nature of future nuclear terrorism threat assessments and sheds new light on the ongoing debates within the nuclear terrorism literature This book will be of particular interest to students of nuclear proliferation terrorism studies international organisations and security studies in general s engagement with the East and West Comparative and mixed methods work is particularly encouraged Case studies are welcomed but should demonstrate the broader theoretical and empirical implications of the study and its wider relevance to contemporary debates The focus of the series is on sub Saharan Africa although proposals that explain how the region engages with North Africa and other parts of the world are of interest General Editors Nic Cheeseman Peace Medie and Ricardo Soares de Oliveira Gender, Violence, Refugees Susanne Buckley-Zistel,Ulrike Krause,2017-08-01 Providing nuanced accounts of how the social identities of men and women the context of displacement and the experience or manifestation of violence interact this collection offers conceptual analyses and in depth case studies to illustrate how gender relations are affected by displacement encampment and return The essays show how these factors lead to various forms of direct indirect and structural violence This ranges from discussions of norms reflected in policy documents and practise the relationship between relief structures and living conditions in camps to forced military recruitment and forced return and covers countries in Africa Asia and Europe
