

A man with a mustache, wearing a white short-sleeved button-down shirt and white trousers, stands on a rocky, vegetated shore. He is holding a long, thin wooden staff or pole with both hands in front of him. Behind him is a large harbor filled with numerous small white boats, likely fishing boats. In the distance, a town with buildings is visible on the shore under a cloudy sky. The overall scene suggests a coastal or island setting.

The old women that sat around with their backbones in the form of an arch. The square shoulders of the brown-skinned girls crossed their arms and lay on their bellies in reflection on the bright sun rays on the floor. The women sat tall above the rim of the bed and the family bed. The department men from handling heavy fish on the coast, that some of them were now dead. They were as still as statues in the fishing boat.

"But remember that you must enjoy every day without fail and then we might say one thing about the whole world."

"I know," the old man said. "It is just a mouse."

These data suggest a more complex picture of the relationship between the two variables. The data suggest that the relationship between the two variables is not linear, and that the relationship is more complex than the simple linear relationship suggested by the data in Table 1.

ABOUT THE BOOK

Everything about him was old except his eyes and they were the same color as the sea and were cheerful and undefeated The Old Man and the Sea is one of the most recognized titles in the American canon the simple story of a man named Santiago who has acquired iconic status for his encounter with the ultimate catch in the Atlantic ocean The novel addresses themes common to many of Hemingway's novels identity manhood death and religion His straightforward confrontation of these issues central to the American experience gives a contemporary relevance to the novel Hemingway wrote The Old Man and the Sea in 1952 while in Cuba the last book he published during his lifetime The book is largely responsible for Hemingway's celebrity and was extremely successful before he died The novel likely began as a story written for Esquire magazine in 1936 about a fisherman at sea attacked by sharks while chasing a giant catch The success of this story led him to expand it into a short novel Hemingway published Across the River and Into the Trees in 1952 though it was met with great disappointment Many doubted that the author had another great novel in him Hemingway was concerned as it was important to him that The Old Man and the Sea become a literary success
