GeneticsANALYZING EXPERIMENTS

Part of Gregor Mendel's hypotheses of inheritance proposed that when two contrasting traits occur together, one of them may be completely expressed, while the other may have no observable effect on the organism's appearance. He called the expressed trait dominant and the unexpressed trait recessive. In his genetic experiments, Mendel studied seven contrasting traits of peas. One of the traits he studied was the trait for seed shape. Mendel found that there are two forms of the trait for seed shape—wrinkled and round. In an experiment to determine which form of this trait was dominant, Mendel performed the following experiment:

- A. Mendel allowed the plants to self-fertilize to produce the homozygous P generations.
- B. Mendel then performed a cross between the homozygous plants with round seeds (RR) and homozygous plants with wrinkled seeds (rr) to produce the F_1 generation.
- C. Mendel then allowed the F_1 plants to self-fertilize to produce the F_2 generation.
- D. Mendel analyzed the results of the crosses to determine the genotypes and phenotypes present.

Use the information above to answer questions 1–5.

1. To determine the results of this experiment, complete the Punnett squares below by writing the correct allele(s) in the space provided.
