Cthulhu Mythos story The Nameless City is an ancient ruin located somewhere in the deserts of the Arabian Peninsula and is older than any human civilization In ancient times the city was built and inhabited by an unnamed race of reptiles with a body shaped like a cross between a crocodile and a seal with a strange head common to neither involving a protruding forehead horns lack of a nose and an alligator like jaw These beings moved by crawling thus the architecture of the city has very low ceilings and some places are too low for a human being to stand upright Their city was originally coastal but when the seas receded it was left in the depths of a desert This resulted in the decline and eventual ruin of the city H P Howard

Phillips Lovecraft was an American author who achieved posthumous fame through his influential works of horror fiction. Virtually unknown and only published in pulp magazines before he died in poverty, he is now regarded as one of the most significant 20th century authors in his genre. Intellectually precocious but sensitive, Lovecraft had begun composing rudimentary horror tales and had begun to be overwhelmed by feelings of anxiety by the age of eight. In early adulthood, he was established in a reclusive nightbird lifestyle without occupation or pursuit of romantic adventures. In 1913, his conduct of a long running controversy in the letters page of a story magazine led to his being invited to participate in an amateur journalism association. Encouraged, he started circulating his stories; he was 31 at the time of his first publication in a professional magazine. Within a few years, he was a regular contributor to newly founded Weird Tales magazine. The

Nameless City - Publishing People Series Howard Phillips Lovecraft, 2020-10-26 When I drew nigh the nameless city I knew it was accursed. I was traveling in a parched and terrible valley under the moon, and afar I saw it protruding uncannily above the sands as parts of a corpse may protrude from an ill made grave. Fear spoke from the age worn stones of this hoary survivor of the deluge, this great grandfather of the eldest pyramid, and a viewless aura repelled me and bade me retreat from antique and sinister secrets that no man should see and no man else had dared to see. Remote in the desert of Araby lies the nameless city, crumbling and inarticulate, its low walls nearly hidden by the sands of uncounted ages. It must have been thus before the first stones of Memphis were laid and while the bricks of Babylon were yet unbaked. There is no legend so old as to give it a name or to recall that it was ever alive, but it is told of in whispers around campfires and muttered about by grandams in the tents of sheiks so that all the tribes shun it without wholly knowing why. It was of this place that Abdul Alhazred, the mad poet, dreamed of the night before he sang his unexplained couplet: I should have known that the Arabs had good reason for shunning the nameless city, the city told of in strange tales but seen by no living man; yet I defied them and went into the untrodden waste with my camel. I alone have seen it, and that is why no other face bears such hideous lines of fear as mine; why no other man shivers so horribly when the night wind rattles the windows. When I came upon it in the ghastly stillness of unending sleep, it looked at me chillily from the rays of a cold moon amidst the desert's heat. And as I returned, its look I forgot, my triumph at finding it, and stopped still with my camel to wait for the dawn. The Nameless City
