

Management of upper gastrointestinal bleeding

This visual summary presents a practical approach to initial management of patients with upper gastrointestinal bleeding. Peptic ulcers are the most common cause of serious bleeding from the oesophagus, stomach, and duodenum, and can be identified with simple diagnostic tests.

Actions in parallel

Obtain blood chemistry

Obtain medical history

Initial assessment

Check circulatory status to assess need for immediate interventions.

Blood pressure may remain normal initially, so increased heart rate is a more sensitive measure of circulatory status.

Haemodynamically stable

Signs of current bleeding

- Hematochezia
- Haematemesis

Urgent intensive care involvement required for:

- Haemodynamically unstable
- Airway compromise
- Hypoxia
- Reduced level of consciousness

Initial resuscitation

2 x Large bore intravenous access

Intravenous fluids

Urinary catheter (if required)

Pharmacological treatment (proton pump inhibitor)

Proton pump inhibitor
Eradication of any Helicobacter pylori infection

Haemodynamically stable
Endoscopy within 24 hours

Successful haemostasis

Embolisation therapy

Transcatheter arterial embolisation should be considered as the next alternative after unsuccessful endoscopy, because it is effective and associated with less risk of major complications than surgery.

Emergency endoscopy

Not successful haemostasis

Surgery

If transcatheter arterial embolisation is unsuccessful or not available, surgery is the only remaining treatment to stop peptic ulcer bleeding. A minimal surgical approach with over-sewing of the ulcer is preferable, but depending on size and location of ulcer, open surgery may be required.
