Journal of International Commerce & Economics ,2009      Journal of International Commerce & Economics Volume II ,      The United States, Russia, and China Paul J. Bolt,Su Changhe,Sharyl Cross,2008-04-30 In the brief experience the world has had during the post 9 11 era much has been made of the need for sharing intelligence in the war on terror and a lot of emphasis has been placed on the desirability of interfaith dialogue between Christians and Muslims But comparatively little attention has been paid to a crucial component of intercultural cooperation on the key global security issues facing the world today that between and among the United States Russia and China This book examines key security issues of the day from the perspectives of those three powers From an American perspective Russia represents an erstwhile enemy of the Cold War era who has the potential to become an ally while China is poised to become either an enemy an ally or an economic rival depending on whom you listen to From a Russian perspective the United States is a former ally during World War II turned Cold War enemy turned lone superpower with the potential for cooperation and conflict while China has always embodied both ally and rival even during the Communist era To the Chinese who have had rivalries and cooperative relations with both powers the United States is currently a valued supplier of both raw materials and a vast market for Chinese goods while Russia and the United States are rivals in the scramble for influence in the Middle East and elsewhere With such a complicated history and with a future fraught with all sorts of possibilities how can these three key powers cooperate in managing and responding to global security threats and terrorism This book examines key issues of the day including the threat posed by al Qaeda WMD energy security environmental security ethnic and religious conflicts and a nuclear North Korea from the perspectives of the United States Russia and China Each chapter is written by scholars from at least two of the three countries In this manner the book embodies that which it seeks to demonstrate becoming in itself an artifact of intercultural cooperation in the new international security environment      The Earth Policy Reader Lester R. Brown,Janet Larsen,Bernie Fischlowitz-Roberts,2013-10-31 In this study the award winning environmental analyst Lester Brown and his colleagues have charted progress in building the eco economy an economy in harmony with the Earth s ecosystems not undermining them This edition of the biennial reader highlights 12 key trends from population growing by 80 million annually to ice melting to the boom in use of solar cells It explains for example why wind generated electricity is emerging as the foundation of the new post fossil fuel energy economy It also specifically investigates China s desertification problem the issues surrounding food production and the challenge of controlling climate change Drawing on research and analysis by the Earth Policy Institute the reader monitors the shift from the old economy to the new      Wood Products, International Trade and Foreign Markets ,2000      The Illegal Trade in Timber and Timber Products in the Asia-Pacific Region Andreas Schloenhardt,2008 The illegal trade in timber and timber products leads to economic losses in many countries as well as environmental degradation International policy exists to curtail some of the trade but there are still clandestine operations by large organisations and criminal networks This report examines the scale of the illegal timber trade in the Asia Pacific region encompassing the processes and current trends in logging sourcing trafficking manufacturing importing and consumption of illegal timber and timber products Assessments of countries timber resources extent of illegal logging policies and legislation and enforcement initiatives show the efficacy of local regional national and international legislative frameworks and actions to suppress illegal trade The report highlights the need for cooperative policies and regulations between countries to resolve sovereignty issues share information and develop standards Issues addressing monitoring the transit of timber and timber products would identify weaknesses in governance laws policies and enforcement Potential research that identifies the causes of the trade economic dimensions and legal frameworks combined with government intelligence would inform policymaking
