Reframed Wing-Shing Tang,Kam Wing Chan,2021-06-21 Given China s rapid economic growth and massive urbanization no one in the world can ignore what is happening in urban China This book is a critical review of existing urban China research which is found wanting due to the decontextualized use of theories and concepts developed in the West Urban China Reframed A Critical Appreciation consists of epistemological theoretical and methodological contributions to remedy these limitations by focusing on a number of relevant topics First models are widely employed in any study and China nowadays has invoked models like city system zones and global city in socio economic development How to interpret them in terms of knowledge production in a strong party state Second given the global prevalence of neoliberalism it is an important debate whether neoliberalism is applicable to China Third what is urban ideology in China How to contextualize it Are debates about the differentiation between the city and urbanization relevant to China Fourth massive rural urban migration in China has taken place within its mega rural urban dual system an institution that has persisted since the 1950s How does it manifest nowadays Fifth has the town country divide in China like in the West disappeared If not how can one interpret China s town country relations within the politics and administration of the Chinese state Sixth how to decipher the territorial development in the Pearl River Delta the world s factory under the auspices of the state The collection of essays in this volume contributes to the theoretical understanding of urban China The chapters in this book were originally published in the Eurasian Geography and Economics

Urban Neighborhoods in a New Era Clarence N. Stone,Robert P. Stoker,2015-09-18 For decades North American cities racked by deindustrialization and population loss have followed one primary path in their attempts at revitalization a focus on economic growth in downtown and business areas Neighborhoods meanwhile have often been left severely underserved There are however signs of change This collection of studies by a distinguished group of political scientists and urban planning scholars offers a rich analysis of the scope potential and ramifications of a shift still in progress Focusing on neighborhoods in six cities Baltimore Chicago Denver Los Angeles Phoenix and Toronto the authors show how key players including politicians and philanthropic organizations are beginning to see economic growth and neighborhood improvement as complementary goals The heads of universities and hospitals in central locations also find themselves facing newly defined realities adding to the fluidity of a new political landscape even as structural inequalities exert a continuing influence While not denying the hurdles that community revitalization still faces the contributors ultimately put forth a strong case that a more hospitable local milieu can be created for making neighborhood policy In examining the course of experiences from an earlier period of redevelopment to the present postindustrial city this book opens a window on a complex process of political change and possibility for reform

Urban Infrastructure Remo Dalla Longa, 2023-03-01 The book deals with the concept of urban infrastructure and the strong evolution of globalization in particular the driving force taken by global cities Urban infrastructure is a constituent part of the global cities both have a synergistic evolution The main reference is to western global cities in the intertwining of financialization settling and brownfield which is a little different from the urbanization of other global cities of other non developed countries or emerging countries There is therefore a significant link between globalization and urban infrastructure The occurrence of slowbalization can have consequences on urban areas infrastructures and more generally on the different dichotomy between global city and nation With the pandemic infectious and the post COVID there is already a different configuration between the global city and the rest of the national territory A driving element of the urban infrastructure and the global city has been the financialization and identification of assets within global cities Urban infrastructure as an asset has grown considerably in the last two decades in the wake of what has already been highlighted previously for real estate There are contiguous issues that affect the concept of urban infrastructures and they are the enormous growth of finance and the landings of this in the great cities of the world with investments that first involved Real Estate and then urban infrastructures There has also been a technological revolution that has merged the ubiquitous technological infrastructure with other more traditional components of the infrastructure even apparently recent themes such as smart cities come from this evolutionary trend and merge with urban infrastructures The theme of smart cities if properly interpreted gives strength to the concept of urban infrastructure
