

When Words Hurt

Verbal Abuse In Marriage

by Jeff Olson

Marsha's stomach tightened. She had innocently asked her husband Dan what he had planned for the afternoon. She wanted to make sure he wasn't depending on her to be at home. She was still shaken from the anger Dan had expressed the day before when he found out she had gone shopping without telling him. For several long minutes in the middle of last night's dinner he had glared and shouted, and threatened to take away the checkbook and the car if she didn't start checking with him first. So now, the next morning, Marsha was cautiously asking him about his plans for the day. Typically, Dan misread her motives: "Why do I always have to tell you what I'm going to do?" he snapped.

Marsha could feel her body beginning to tense more. "You don't," she said timidly. "I was just wondering if you might like to do something this afternoon."
