The German Political Broadsheet 1687 1699 1700:

The German Political Broadsheet, 1600-1700: 1683-1685 John Roger Paas, 1985 The latter half of the seventeenth century in Europe was marked by virtually constant warfare on the Continent and the Habsburgs found themselves involved in all of these confrontations Their struggle to maintain their territorial integrity was threatened by the expansionist policies of France in the west and the Ottoman Empire in the east and they were often hard pressed to respond forcefully to the challenges An attempt by the Turks to settle the question of political control in Eastern Europe culminated in their siege of Vienna in 1683 a defining historical event of immense importance for its outcome determined the future course of European politics With the defeat of the Turks the Austrian Habsburgs were able to focus their attention on driving the Ottoman forces from the Continent and during this unsettling time citizens in the empire received much of their news of military events in the form of broadsheets There had been two high points in the production of broadsheets earlier in the century first during the early years of the Thirty Years War and then again at the time of Gustavus Adolphus's military success in the early 1630s and the siege of Vienna and subsequent campaign against the Turks became the third such highpoint This volume brings together for the first time all of the known German political broadsheets from the siege of Vienna to the final months before the siege and capture of Budapest Many of the broadsheets have never been reproduced and thus offer readers a unique resource for understanding public opinion at the time 1633-1648, 2002 The German Political Broadsheet, 1600-1700: 1671-1682 John Roger Paas, 1985 The decades following the Thirty Years War were a time of almost continual military conflict in Europe and the 1670s were especially turbulent In the East the Austrian Habsburgs faced a serious rebellion in Hungary while in the West Louis XIV threatened to destabilize Europe by invading the Low Countries Illustrated broadsheets chronicled these conflicts and provided the most readily available source of information for those interested in current news Today these broadsheets are one of the most valuable primary sources we have for this period but because they are exceedingly rare and widely scattered they have been largely unavailable to scholars This unique collection reproduces all of the known German political broadsheets from this time along with their models and copies almost 400 full page reproductions from 90 different collections in 15 countries The German Political Broadsheet 1600-1700 John Roger Paas, 1991 The 1660s were a time of continual warfare in Europe Early in the decade the Ottoman Empire posed a grave threat to the West and later competing national interests led the French the English and the Dutch to become embroiled in military conflict As people sought to keep abreast of current events broadsheets constituted one of the most important sources of news Reproduced in this volume are 450 sheets drawn from over 80 collections in 15 countries for the period from 1662 to 1670 The majority of this material is extremely rare and very few of the sheets have been reproduced since the original printing in the seventeenth century The entire edition which now comprises 9 volumes and includes more than 3000 half tone reproductions of broadsheets dating from 1600 to 1670 is unparalleled in its breadth and depth It is a valuable
