DelRosso,2016-04-30 Writing Catholic Women examines the interplay of gender race ethnicity nationality and sexuality through the lens of Catholicism in a wide range of works by women writers forging interdisciplinary connections among women s studies religion and late twentieth century literature Discussing a diverse group of authors Jeana DelRosso posits that the girlhood narratives of such writers constitute highly charged sites of their differing gestures toward Catholicism and argues that an understanding of the ways in which women write about religion from different cultural and racial contexts offers a crucial contribution to current discussions in gender ethnic and cultural studies

Saint Cicero and the Jesuits Robert Aleksander Maryks, 2016-04-08 In this commanding study Dr Maryks offers a detailed analysis of early modern Jesuit confessional manuals to explore the order's shifting attitudes to confession and conscience Drawing on his census of Jesuit penitential literature published between 1554 and 1650 he traces in these works a subtly shifting theology influenced by both theology and classical humanism In particular the roles of Tutorism whereby an individual follows the law rather than the instinct of their own conscience and Probabilism which conversely gives priority to the individual's conscience are examined It is argued that for most of the sixteenth century books such as Juan Alfonso de Polanco's Directory for Confessors espousing a Tutorist line dominated the market for Jesuit confessional manuals until the seventeenth century by which time Probabilism had become the dominating force in Jesuit theology What caused this switch from Tutorism to Probabilism forms the central thesis of Dr Maryks' book He believes that as a direct result of the Jesuits' adoption of a new ministry of educating youth in the late 1540s Jesuit schoolmasters were compelled to engage with classical culture many aspects of which would have resonated with their own concepts of spirituality In particular Ciceronian humanitas and civilt along with rhetorical principles of accommodation influenced Jesuit thinking in the revolutionary transition from medieval Tutorism to modern Probabilism By integrating concepts of theology classical humanism and publishing history this book offers a compelling account of how diverse forces could act upon a religious order to alter the central beliefs it held and promulgated This book is published in conjunction with the Jesuit Historical Institute series Bibliotheca Instituti Historici Societatis Iesu

Defining Nature's Limits Neil Tarrant, 2022-11-18 A look at the history of censorship science and magic from the Middle Ages to the post Reformation era Neil Tarrant challenges conventional thinking by looking at the longer history of censorship considering a five hundred year continuity of goals and methods stretching from the late eleventh century to well into the sixteenth Unlike earlier studies Defining Nature's Limits engages the history of both learned and popular magic Tarrant explains how the church developed a program that sought to codify what was proper belief through confession inquisition and punishment and prosecuted what they considered superstition or heresy that stretched beyond the boundaries of religion These efforts were continued by the Roman Inquisition established in 1542 Although it was designed primarily to combat Protestantism from the outset the new institution investigated both practitioners of illicit magic and inquiries into natural philosophy delegitimizing certain practices and thus shaping the development of early modern science Describing the dynamics of censorship that continued well into the post Reformation era Defining Nature's Limits is revisionist history that will interest scholars of the history science the history of magic and the history of the church alike
