Fatal Flowers Jess Dylan, 2022-05-24 Fatal Flowers is the third in a colorful cozy mystery series from Jess Dylan set in the Flower House where you re as likely to find a killer as a chrysanthemum As Aerieville Tennessee s Flower House finally gains in popularity Sierra Ravenswood finds herself feeling ready for new challenges Luckily the shop has grabbed the attention of the mayor s daughter and bride to be Marissa Lakely Sierra is thrilled and nervous to land her most important job yet providing flowers for the biggest wedding Aerieville has ever seen Fortunately Marissa bucks all stereotypes and is far from a bridezilla but her wedding planner Taz Banyan has apparently taken on the role for himself He s uptight intense and a little intimidating But Taz aside everything seems to be under control until Sierra makes a startling discovery in the great room the wedding planner lying in a heap at the bottom of the stairs in very bad shape In fact he survives only long enough to mutter It was the snake As Granny Mae would say seeing a snake is rarely a good sign and this was clearly no exception With the town on edge and the wedding up in the air Sierra refuses to stop asking questions in her determination to put an end to this latest danger so both Aerieville and the Flower House can flourish once more

Standards and Their Stories Martha Lampland, Susan Leigh Star, 2009 Standardization is one of the defining aspects of modern life its presence so pervasive that it is usually taken for granted However cumbersome onerous or simply puzzling certain standards may be their fundamental purpose in streamlining procedures regulating behaviors and predicting results is rarely questioned Indeed the invisibility of infrastructure and the imperative of standardizing processes signify their absolute necessity Increasingly however social scientists are beginning to examine the origins and effects of the standards that underpin the technology and practices of everyday life Standards and Their Stories explores how we interact with the network of standards that shape our lives in ways both obvious and invisible The main chapters analyze standardization in biomedical research government bureaucracies the insurance industry labor markets and computer technology providing detailed accounts of the invention of standard humans for medical testing and life insurance actuarial tables the imposition of chronological age as a biographical determinant the accepted means of determining labor productivity the creation of international standards for the preservation and access of metadata and the global consequences of ASCII imperialism and the use of English as the lingua franca of the Internet Accompanying these in depth critiques are a series of examples that depict an almost infinite variety of standards from the controversies surrounding the European Union s supposed regulation of banana curvature to the minimum health requirements for immigrants at Ellis Island conflicting and ever increasing food portion sizes and the impact of standardized punishment metrics like Three Strikes laws The volume begins with a pioneering essay from Susan Leigh Star and Martha Lampland on the nature of standards in everyday life that brings together strands from the several fields represented in the book In an appendix the editors provide a guide for teaching courses in this emerging interdisciplinary field which they term infrastructure studies making Standards and Their Stories ideal for scholars students and those curious about why coffins are becoming wider for instance or why the Financial Accounting Standards Board refused to classify September 11 as an extraordinary event
