Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet on the body composition and physical fitness of obese women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 20 obese women who were randomly assigned to either a diet or a control group. The diet group was instructed to consume a diet that was 1000 kcal less than their maintenance level. The control group was instructed to consume a diet that was equal to their maintenance level. The study was conducted over a 10-week period. The results of the study showed that the diet group lost significantly more weight and body fat than the control group. The diet group also showed significant improvements in physical fitness, including increases in aerobic capacity and decreases in body fat percentage. The control group showed no significant changes in weight, body fat, or physical fitness. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet is an effective intervention for weight loss and improvement in physical fitness in obese women.
