Enabling People-Centered Risk Communication for Geohazards Alessandro Amato, Sally H. Potter, Anna Scolobig, Eric M. Thompson, 2024-07-18 In the field of natural hazards, communicating science with the public and stakeholders involves entering the challenging and complex world of hazard and risk communication, the ultimate purpose of which is to reduce the impact of impending hazards on people at risk. According to the Sendai Framework 2015-2030, it is important to strengthen the utilization of media, including social media, traditional media, big data, and mobile phone networks, to support national measures for successful disaster risk communication. Sometimes, risk communication has collateral and unexpected side effects that may lead to the adoption of inadequate behaviors. In some instances, this can even result in legal actions being taken against scientists and/or emergency managers. The role of the media should be to facilitate the accurate communication of hazard and risk information, but such communication is often hampered by the fact that journalists have different agendas and priorities than scientists, risk communicators, and emergency managers. This does not always support people in their decision making. Accurate communication of hazard and risk is especially important when decisions have to be made within contexts where uncertainty is very high. This is often the case with geohazards such as earthquakes, tsunamis, volcanic eruptions, and landslides.

Advances in Best-Worst Method Jafar Rezaei, Matteo Brunelli, Majid Mohammadi, 2021-11-10 This book presents recent advances in the theory and application of the Best Worst Method (BWM). It includes selected papers from the Second International Workshop on Best Worst Method (BWM2021) held in Delft, The Netherlands, from 10-11 June 2021, and provides valuable insights on why and how to use BWM in a diverse range of applications, including health, energy, supply chain management, and engineering. The book highlights the use of BWM in different settings, including single decision making vs. group decision making, and complete information vs. incomplete and uncertain situations. The papers gathered here will benefit academics and practitioners who are involved in multi-criteria decision making and decision analysis.
