Modern Trends in Diatom Identification Gabriel Cristóbal, Saúl Blanco, Gloria Bueno, 2020-05-28 High resolution images of phytoplankton cells such as diatoms or desmids which are useful for monitoring water quality can now be provided by digital microscopes facilitating the automated analysis and identification of specimens Conventional approaches are based on optical microscopy however manual image analysis is impractical due to the huge diversity of this group of microalgae and its great morphological plasticity As such there is a need for automated recognition techniques for diagnostic tools e g environmental monitoring networks early warning systems to improve the management of water resources and decision making processes Describing the entire workflow of a bioindicator system from capture analysis and identification to the determination of quality indices this book provides insights into the current state of the art in automatic identification systems in microscopy

Routledge Handbook of Food as a Commons Jose Luis Vivero-Pol, Tomaso Ferrando, Olivier De Schutter, Ugo Mattei, 2018-12-17 From the scientific and industrial revolution to the present day food an essential element of life has been progressively transformed into a private transnational mono dimensional commodity of mass consumption for a global market But over the last decade there has been an increased recognition that this can be challenged and reconceptualized if food is regarded and enacted as a commons This Handbook provides the first comprehensive review and synthesis of knowledge and new thinking on how food and food systems can be thought interpreted and practiced around the old new paradigms of commons and commoning The overall aim is to investigate the multiple constraints that occur within and sustain the dominant food and nutrition regime and to explore how it can change when different elements of the current food systems are explored and re imagined from a commons perspective Chapters do not define the notion of commons but engage with different schools of thought the economic approach based on rivalry and excludability the political approach recognizing the plurality of social constructions and incorporating epistemologies from the South the legal approach that describes three types of proprietary regimes private public and collective and different layers of entitlement bundles of rights and the radical activist approach that considers the commons as the most subversive coherent and history rooted alternative to the dominant neoliberal narrative These schools have different and rather diverging epistemologies vocabularies ideological stances and policy proposals to deal with the construction of food systems their governance the distributive implications and the socio ecological impact on Nature and Society The book sparks the debate on food as a commons between and within disciplines with particular attention to spaces of resistance food sovereignty de growth open knowledge transition town occupations bottom up social innovations and organizational scales local food national policies South South collaborations international governance and multi national agreements Overall it shows the consequences of a shift to the alternative paradigm of food as a commons in terms of food the planet and living beings
