Dividing Hispaniola

Edward Paulino, 2016-02-16 The island of Hispaniola is split by a border that divides the Dominican Republic and Haiti This border has been historically contested and largely porous Dividing Hispaniola is a study of Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo's scheme during the mid twentieth century to create and reinforce a buffer zone on this border through the establishment of state institutions and an ideological campaign against what was considered an encroaching black inferior and bellicose Haitian state The success of this program relied on convincing Dominicans that regardless of their actual color whiteness was synonymous with Dominican cultural identity Paulino examines the campaign against Haiti as the construct of a fractured urban intellectual minority bolstered by international politics and U S imperialism This minority included a diverse set of individuals and institutions that employed anti Haitian rhetoric for their own benefit i e sugar manufacturers and border officials Yet in reality these same actors had no interest in establishing an impermeable border Paulino further demonstrates that Dominican attitudes of admiration and solidarity toward Haitians as well as extensive intermixture around the border region were commonplace In sum his study argues against the notion that anti Haitianism was part of a persistent and innate Dominican ethos
