Reef Fish Spawning Aggregations: Biology, Research and Management Yvonne Sadovy de Mitcheson, Patrick L. Colin, 2011-12-10 Reef fish spawning aggregations ranging from small groups to many tens of thousands of individuals are spectacular but poorly known natural phenomena whereby fish assemble at specific times and locations to spawn For some species these large groups may be the only form of reproduction the high fish numbers briefly giving a false impression of stability and abundance an illusion of plenty They are often a focus for intensive seasonal fishing because of their predictability and because many important commercial fishes form them Highly vulnerable to overexploitation many aggregations and their associated fisheries have disappeared or are in decline Few are effectively managed or incorporated into protected areas Aggregations are not well understood by fishery scientists managers and conservationists and their significance little appreciated by fishers or the wider public To ensure their persistence to replenish important fisheries in coral ecosystems maintain their ecosystem function and continue to delight divers a significant change in perspective is needed to foster protection and management This book provides comprehensive and practical coverage of the biology study and management of reef fish aggregations exploring their how when where and why It explores ways to better protect study manage and conserve them while identifying key data gaps and questions The text is extensively illustrated with many unique never before published photographs and graphics Case studies on over 20 interesting and important fishes are included outlining their biology and fisheries and highlighting major concerns and challenges

The biology of hypogean fishes Aldemaro Romero, 2013-06-29 Hypogean cave artesian fishes have fascinated researchers even before they were described in the scientific literature in 1842 Since then a number of scientists have used them to justify their own evolutionary ideas from neo Lamarckism to neo Darwinism from neutral evolution to selectionist approaches Research in recent years has shown that these fishes are much more complex in their adaptations to the subterranean environment than previously believed there are those with features expected from living in total darkness complete blindness and depigmentation and poor in nutrients extremely low metabolic rates others differ very little if any from their epigeal surface ancestors in their morphology and physiology but not so in their behavior Some of them even live in nutrient rich environments Actually one of the most overlooked facets of these animals is that there are more species of hypogean fishes without troglomorphisms blindness depigmentation than with troglomorphic ones The study of these apparently unadapted fishes is providing new insights into our understanding of the evolution of phenotypic characters founding effect behavioral and physiological adaptations The 86 species of troglomorphic fishes described so far belong to 18 different families many of which would hardly fit the notion that they were preadapted to conquer the underground environment Further many troglomorphic species show very little genotypic differentiation when compared with their putative ancestors indicating that massive phenotype changes can be achieved via little genetic reorganization a reorganization that mostly affects regulatory genes These and many other topics are discussed in this volume containing 29 papers written by 41 authors from 9 countries Hopefully this volume will convince many other researchers that hypogean fishes represent a unique opportunity to study a concept in evolutionary biology that is only superficially understood convergent evolution The Biogeography of the Australian North West Shelf Barry

Wilson,2013-06-11 The Biogeography of the Australian North West Shelf provides the first assembly of existing information of the North West Shelf in terms of geological oceanographic and climatological history and current understanding of such issues as biodiversity connectivity larval dispersal and speciation in the sea that determine the distribution patterns of its invertebrate fauna It is intended as a source of information and ideas on the biota of the shelf and its evolutionary origins and affinities and the environmental drivers of species ecology and distribution and ecosystem function Regulators and industry environmental managers worldwide but especially on the resource rich North West Shelf are faced with having to make decisions without adequate information or understanding of conservation values or the factors that drive ecosystem processes and resilience in the face of increasing anthropogenic and natural change This book will provide a resource of information and ideas and extensive references to issues of primary concern It will provide a big picture narrative putting the marine biota into a geological evolutionary and regional biodiversity context The first book to cover the major benthic habitats and physical and ecological condition of the North West Shelf of Australia Covers new information on geomorphology and biota of coral reefs and other invertebrate habitats that are key species and functional groups of the North West Shelf Introduces new ideas on biogeographic processes and patterns in tropical seas World List of

Aquaculture and Marine Serials Mary Katherine Politz,Deborah T. Hanfman,Eileen McVey,1990 Journal of the Royal Society of Western Australia ,2000-12 Conservation of Tropical Coral Reefs Brian Joseph McFarland,2020-12-16

This book critically engages with how the conservation of tropical coral reefs is financed Beginning with the context of tropical coral reef degradation and loss alongside an overview of tropical ecology global environmental policy and finance the book reviews several conservation financing instruments These include ecotourism debt for nature swaps impact investments and government domestic budgetary expenditures From the Great Barrier Reef to the Coral Triangle to the Mesoamerican Reef tropical coral reef degradation and loss are serious global environmental issues contributing to loss revenue and food insecurity for coastal communities and species extinction Yet many leading companies individuals and governments are making a positive impact on tropical coral reef conservation through the use of conservation finance Conservation of Tropical

Coral Reefs using 30 case studies which span 23 countries and 6 continents tells the history of international conservation finance and provides a variety of options for individuals businesses and governments to support conservation financing projects

Spiny Lobsters Bruce Phillips, Jiro Kittaka, 2008-04-30 Spiny lobsters are among the world's most valuable and highly prized seafoods captured and marketed in over 90 countries Demand for spiny lobsters has escalated in the past two decades spurring the need both for better management and for research on which to base that management Spiny lobster aquaculture however now appears to be a real possibility some countries have already approved the legislation and it may be only a few years before this becomes the major source The book opens with a brief review of the general biology distribution fishing techniques etc but the major emphasis is on the latest management strategies developments in aquaculture marketing and economics A special feature of the book will be detailed reviews of the spiny lobster fishery research activities and marketing process in Japan where customers are willing to pay more than US 50 per pound for live lobsters

Sustainability of Water Resources Goen Ho, Kuruvilla Mathew, 2004-12-01 Water is essential for all life forms It is a fundamental resource necessary for socio economic development and for ecological sustainability Good quality water is becoming scarce due to population growth and associated industrial development and pollution particularly in towns and cities It is timely that the sustainability and management of water resources is widely discussed noting that water can be used an unlimited number of times with proper treatment The papers in Sustainability of Water Resources were originally presented at a meeting at Murdoch University on 13-14 November 2002 where new and innovative methods of treatment better understanding and assessment of resources and their supporting ecosystems and proper management for conservation were explored The meeting was preceded by a two day workshop on Water for Cities and participants from the workshop from the Asia Pacific and Indian Ocean regions contributed to lively discussion at the conference
