Rural Tourism Katherine Dashper,2015-01-12 Rural regions are experiencing fundamental challenges to their ways of life and social fabric as traditional land based occupations are in decline and younger and better educated rural residents migrate to cities for greater work social and cultural opportunities Rural tourism offers a possible solution to the problems associated with lost economic opportunities and population decline that accompany the waning of agriculture Many governments and regional authorities have embraced rural tourism as an opportunity to bring new money into rural regions stimulating growth providing employment opportunities and thus beginning to halt rural decline However the possibilities of rural tourism to promote rural regeneration have been criticised for being over stated and unrealistic Rural tourism has frequently been found to under deliver in terms of expected economic benefits and job creation and may sometimes exacerbate local hierarchies and inequalities This edited collection questions the contribution tourism can and does make to rural regions Drawing on a range of geographically diverse research driven case studies the book is thematically organised to explore a variety of issues relevant to rural tourism from the perspectives of local communities businesses government policy makers and the tourists themselves The Rough Guide to New Zealand

Teaching is the personal and professional journey of one teacher within the American educational system Faced with mounting frustrations in her own traditional middle school classroom and having little success in resolving them Kristan Accles Morrison decided to seek out answers first by immersing herself in the academic literature of critical education theory and then by turning to the field While the literature on progressive education gave her hope that things could be different and better for students locked into America's traditional education system she wanted to find a firsthand example of how these ideas played out in practice Morrison found a radical free school in Albany New York that embodied the ideas found in the literature and over a period of three months she observed and documented differences between alternative and traditional schools In trying to reconcile the gap between those systems Morrison details the lessons she learned about teachers students curriculum and the entire conception of why we educate our children *Catalog of Copyright Entries.
