Figure 1: Illustration of the model. The model is a simple linear regression model with a single input variable x and a single output variable y . The input variable x is represented by a vector of size n , and the output variable y is represented by a vector of size n . The model is trained on a dataset of size n , and the training data is represented by a matrix of size $n \times 1$. The model is trained using a loss function, and the training process is represented by a vector of size n . The model is then used to predict the output variable y for a given input variable x .
