Digital Dieting Professor

Tara Brabazon, 2013-11-28 Imagine if a student spent as much time managing information as celebrities doted on dieting While eating too much food may be the basis of a moral panic about obesity excessive information is rarely discussed as a crisis of a similar scale Obviously plentiful and high quality food is not a problem if eating is balanced with exercise But without the skills of media and information literacy students and citizens wade through low quality online information that fills their day yet does not enable intellectual challenge imagination and questioning Digital Dieting From Information Obesity to Intellectual Fitness probes the social political and academic difficulties in managing large quantities of low quality information But this book does not diagnose a crisis Instead Digital Dieting provides strategies to develop intellectual fitness that sorts the important from the irrelevant and the remarkable from the banal In April 2010 and for the first time Facebook received more independent visitors than Google Increasingly there is a desire to share rather than search But what is the impact of such a change on higher education If students complain that the reading is too hard then one response is to make it easier If students complain that assignments are too difficult then one way to manage this challenge is to make the assignments simpler Both are passive responses that damage the calibre of education and universities in the long term Digital Dieting From Information Obesity to Intellectual Fitness provides active conscious careful and applicable strategies to move students and citizens from searching to researching sharing to thinking and shopping to reading An Ed-Tech Tragedy? Mark West, 2025-10-10 The COVID 19 pandemic pushed education from schools to educational technologies at a pace and scale with no historical precedent For hundreds of millions of students formal learning became fully dependent on technology whether internet connected digital devices televisions or radios An Ed Tech Tragedy examines the numerous adverse and unintended consequences of the shift to ed tech It documents how technology first solutions left a global majority of learners behind and details the many ways education was diminished even when technology was available and worked as intended Using tragedy as a metaphor and borrowing the organization of a three act theatrical play the book shows how technology first modes of learning introduced novel health and safety risks handed significant control of public education to for profit companies expanded invasive digital surveillance and carried detrimental environmental repercussions in addition to adversely impacting educational access equity quality and outcomes in most contexts Dedicated sections consider alternative and less technology reliant educational responses to COVID 19 disruptions that had the potential to be more inclusive and equitable The analysis further explains how pandemic models of learning are rippling beyond school closures and influencing the future of education Holistically the work invites readers to reconsider a turbulent chapter in education history and reexamine the purposes and roles of technology in education The Invention of Childhood Creativity Cat Martins, 2024-11-15 This text offers a comprehensive analysis of the concept of the modern creative and imaginative child in Western education Drawing on archived sources and historical works it reframes childhood creativity as a social cultural and scientific construction asking how our thinking and acting toward the creative child have been produced historically The text dissects the discursive construction of creativity as a natural and developmental attribute of the child It argues that the idea of the White creative child constructed through comparative reasoning shaped by primitivism and illustrated through botanical metaphors as close to nature and the senses is a notion embedded with colonialities forming part of a Western civilizing project and entrenched power knowledge relations A compelling and original account of childhood creativity this text will appeal to researchers in arts education early childhood education curriculum studies and the history of education Teaching Higher Education to Lead Sam Choon-Yin,2021-12-22 Competition to provide education is tense attributed to the ease to access and process information Technological development has also landed a terrible blow to the employment situation which forces higher education institutions to review what and how their students learn Yet the desire to retain and grow the number of students and gain commercially can sometimes cloud judgment of educational leaders They need to know that poorly made decisions hurt the businesses and students In this book Sam Choon Yin explores how technological development has the potential to transform higher education However the same technology also has the potential to disrupt the education sector The author provides a critical outlook on the prevailing practices of the higher education institutions By drawing our attention to the various challenges the author shows how teaching and learning can be effectively carried out in the digital age to serve the needs of students and hiring companies and ultimately the institutions of higher learning Understanding the issues and challenges means better design of and delivery of the curriculum At a deeper level the book raises a complex question of what makes an education institution different as they aim to define themselves by fulfilling students desire Understanding these issues forms the basis of power for higher education institutions to remain competitive and relevant in the age of digitization Journal of the Senate of the State of Indiana ,2012 Migration, Transmission, Localisation: Visual Art in Singapore (1886-1945) Yeo Mang Thong,2019-03-31 Drawing mainly on advertisements and comics in Chinese newspapers Singaporean scholar and educator Yeo Mang Thong demonstrates how Singapore was an important hub for artists who travelled to and lived in Singapore Yeo s research features amongst other things essays on sojourning artists and fills a gap in scholarship on the pre war visual arts scene in Singapore Originally in Chinese this English translation aims to bring his research to a broader audience Behavior Modification Garry Martin,Joseph J.
