

TEACHING DEMONSTRATION REFLECTION PAPER

The very first time when I heard about teaching demonstration, I felt so many emotions, excited, nervous, and afraid. I went through the emotion of excitement because it indirectly told me that my real teaching is approaching. I will become a teacher soon. Day passed by, I started to feel nervous when I think about what to teach in the skill of grammar, although this skill is my favorite subject. After doing plentiful research, I got an interesting grammar point to teach which is "Dangling Modifier". Today, therefore, as the demonstration comes to an end, I would like to reflect back on some of the bittersweet memories, lesson-learned for improving.

To begin with, I was quite fortunate because I got grammar to teach and I had to teach on the third and fourth week of the practicum, which meant I had more time to observe my classmates; their best practices, and I had more time to plan my lesson. Recognizing this opportunity, as I was observing my peers, I noted down the methodologies they were using to engage their students, how they presented their language points, what kinds of questions they would ask to challenge their students to think, so on and so forth. To me, without the observations of my peers, my demonstration would have been an awkward experience since I could not relate my experiences to theirs. Moreover, after seeing so many best practices, I could personalize them to my teaching in the upcoming week, and this would allow me to be more flexible in my teaching and to be aware of challenges that might present during my teaching practices.

As my turn arrived, I've already planned my lessons and sent it to my friends for feedback. It's one of the crucial steps in teaching because in order to be well-prepared for the class, we have to plan it first and foresee the possibilities of errors, and that crucially helps us a lot before the actual teaching. I am not going to walk you through the procedure of my teaching; however, I am going to tell you what I have learned from this session. Overall, I could say it went well, students got something new as I expected it to be, but there were a few issues that happened during my session. I would say I was too ambitious and nervous in recording my video of teaching. You can guess it now; I lose my concentration from students respond to the recorder. I cannot catch students' answers and cannot write all that they said, which made some of them feel a bit disappointed. I have realized that students are our motivation as a teacher. Though it is one of the other factors, I could say it was really important to me. Without their participation and cooperation, my teaching would not go so smoothly with a satisfactory result and very few technical errors. Additionally, I had a Teaching About Social Justice Issues in Physical Education Jennifer L. Walton-Fisette, Sue Sutherland, Joanne Hill, 2019-09-01 Addressing social justice issues in a physical education context is necessary both at the higher education and PK 12 settings Limited undergraduate and graduate programs educate their students about social justice issues thus resulting in licensed teachers who lack the content knowledge comfort level and pedagogical tools on how to educate students about issues related to social justice Grounded in the transformative pedagogy theoretical framework this book will offer practical lessons and strategies on a wide variety of social issues e g body race self identity immigration that can be used in teacher education and the PK 12 setting The goal is for teacher educators and practitioners to feel more comfortable with teaching about and for social justice and believe this resource will enhance their content and pedagogical knowledge in the quest to achieve that goal The purpose of this book is to provide physical education teacher educators and PK 12 physical education teachers with lesson plans and resources on how to address social justice issues in a physical education setting This book will include sample lesson plans activities that address a wide variety of social issues the what the how and the challenges and possibilities that the author s encountered when teaching such a lesson activity Addressing social justice issues has been limited in physical education both in higher education and PK 12 especially in the United States Numerous scholars internationally have engaged in research studies that explored how social justice issues are addressed in physical education teacher education Although we have research to support the limitations and complexities of teaching about sociocultural issues and for social justice a more practical resource for teacher educators and inservice teachers is needed The market for this book will be physical education teacher educators and PK 12 physical education teachers throughout the world

Experiences of Second Language Teacher Education T. Wright,M. Beaumont,2014-12-03 This book brings together the voices of teacher educators working in different national and educational settings It Covers themes such as change in teacher education practices the influences of context on practice and of interculturality to provide rich insights into the processes and effects of second language teacher education

Language Teachers and Teaching Selim Ben Said,Lawrence Jun Zhang,2013-10-08 This volume gathers contributions from a range of global experts in teacher education to address the topic of language teacher education It shows how teacher education involves the agency of teachers which forms part of their identity and which they take on when integrating into the teaching community of practice In addition the volume explores the teachers situated practice the dynamic negotiation of classroom situations socialization into the professional teaching culture and on the ground experimentation with pedagogical skills techniques

Teaching and Learning Culture Mads Jakob Kirkebæk,Xiang-Yun Du,Annie Aarup Jensen,2013-11-19 This book is based on educational research conducted by researchers from the Department of Learning and Philosophy and the Confucius Institute for Innovation and Learning at Aalborg University Empirically it reports on different approaches to teaching and learning of culture including a student centered task based problem based learning PBL approach a digital technology supported approach and more It also reports on how when teaching and learning culture teachers professional identity and the informal teaching and learning environment impact the teaching and learning of culture in different educational settings from primary school to university A central theme in the book is the power of context The studies illustrate in multiple ways and from different angles that culture is not taught in a vacuum or learned in isolation but may be influenced by many factors both inside and outside the classroom at the same time culture also influences the context of the learning The context may be invisible and hide itself as tacit knowledge or embedded values or it may be very visible and present itself as a fixed curriculum or an established tradition No matter what forms and shapes the context takes the studies in this book strongly indicate that it is essential to be aware of the power of context in teaching and learning culture in order to understand it and negotiate it This book suggests that teachers should not try to limit or avoid contextual influences but instead should explore how the context may be integrated into and used constructively in the teaching and learning of culture This allowance of context in the classroom will allow for teachers students subjects and contexts to enter into a dialogue and negotiation of meaning that will enrich each other and achieve the established goal acquisition of cultural awareness and intercultural understanding Developing Reflective TESOL Practitioners Through Teacher Education Andrzej Cirocki, Mark Wyatt, Xuesong (Andy) Gao, 2024-06-26 This textbook provides insights from Asian contexts into how reflective practice is nurtured on Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages TESOL and English Language Teaching ELT teacher education programmes There is increasing recognition worldwide that given the centrality of reflective practice to teachers ongoing professional development supporting teachers to become reflective practitioners should be integral to teacher education programmes Consequently tertiary level courses in areas such as TESOL and ELT tend to promote reflective practice supported by theoretical input from the burgeoning literature on reflection much of which is produced in the West Relatively under represented in the literature are global perspectives on reflective practice there are consequently relatively few accounts as to how reflective practice is embedded in teacher education programmes in different parts of the world including Asia Hence this book addresses a gap Contributing authors from fourteen countries provide insights into the ways in which teachers are helped to grow as reflective practitioners on their teacher education programmes in their unique contexts This textbook showcases how reflective teaching practices are developed supported by frameworks for critical reflection and in interaction with local educational policies These distinctive accounts aid readers in reflecting on the ways in which reflective practice is supported in their own teacher education contexts and in considering ways of enhancing the reflective dimension of their programmes This textbook showcases innovative reflective activities and can be used as a principal text or as supplemental reading on a range of TESOL and ELT teacher education courses Teaching African American Religions Carolyn M. Jones, Theodore Louis Trost, 2005-07-14 The variety and complexity of its traditions make African American religion one of the most difficult topics in religious studies to teach to undergraduates The sheer scope of the material to be covered is daunting to instructors many of whom are not experts in African American religious traditions but are called upon to include material on African American religion in courses on American Religious History or the History of Christianity Also the unfamiliarity of the subject matter to the vast majority of students makes it difficult to achieve any depth in the brief time allotted in the survey courses where it is usually first encountered The essays in this volume will supply functional innovative ways to teach African American religious traditions in a variety of settings Teaching Food and Culture Candice Lowe Swift, Richard R Wilk, 2016-07 A group of experienced innovative teachers explore methods of teaching about food and using food to teach the basics of various
