Epistemic Freedom in Africa Sabelo

Ndlovu-Gatsheni, 2018-06-27 Epistemic Freedom in Africa is about the struggle for African people to think, theorize, interpret the world and write from where they are located, unencumbered by Eurocentrism. The imperial denial of common humanity to some human beings meant that in turn their knowledges and experiences lost their value, their epistemic virtue. Now in the twenty-first century, descendants of enslaved, displaced, colonized and racialized peoples have entered academies across the world proclaiming loudly that they are human beings, their lives matter and they were born into valid and legitimate knowledge systems that are capable of helping humanity to transcend the current epistemic and systemic crises. Together they are engaging in diverse struggles for cognitive justice, fighting against the epistemic line which haunts the twenty-first century. The renowned historian and decolonial theorist Sabelo J. Ndlovu Gatsheni offers a penetrating and well-argued case for centering Africa as a legitimate historical unit of analysis and epistemic site from which to interpret the world, whilst simultaneously making an equally strong argument for globalizing knowledge from Africa so as to attain ecologies of knowledges. This is a dual process of both deprovincializing Africa and in turn provincializing Europe. The book highlights how the mental universe of Africa was invaded and colonized, the long-standing struggles for an African university and the trajectories of contemporary decolonial movements such as Rhodes Must Fall and Fees Must Fall in South Africa. This landmark work underscores the fact that only once the problem of epistemic freedom has been addressed can Africa achieve political, cultural, economic and other freedoms. This groundbreaking new book is accessible to students and scholars across Education, History, Philosophy, Ethics, African Studies, Development Studies, Politics, International Relations, Sociology, Postcolonial Studies and the emerging field of Decolonial Studies. The Open Access versions Chapter 1 and Chapter 9 available at <https://doi.org/10.4324/9780429492204> have been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 license.

Limpopo's Legacy Anne Heffernan, 2019

Argues that the historical primacy of youth politics in Limpopo, South Africa, has influenced the production of generations of nationally prominent youth and student activists among them Julius Malema, Onkgopotse Tiro, Cyril Ramaphosa, Frank Chikane and Peter Mokaba.

South

Africa's Constitution at Twenty-one Jean Meiring, 2017-10-01

In the new South Africa, there is nobody, not even the president, who is above the law; that the rule of law generally and in particular the independence of the judiciary should be respected. Nelson Mandela. In late 1996, South Africa's Constitution acquired the force of law. Its Bill of Rights enshrined a range of fundamental rights to which all South Africans are entitled. In a marked breach with the past, citizens' rights would no longer depend upon the pigment of their skin or other idiosyncratic features. Today, 21 years since its inception, the Constitution has acquired an almost mythical status both at home and abroad. Yet crucially its primary impact has been on the nuts and bolts of people's lives. It means that the death penalty is no longer a sentencing option and gays and lesbians can get married and adopt. It affects directly the types of contracts and commercial arrangements the courts will countenance.

and on people's rights to land. As such, it impacts on each and every South African's daily life and shapes the country and society we live in. This collection of essays explores what the Constitution means for South Africans and for the world both through its definition of legal rights and through the seepage into the real world of those rights and the culture that has arisen around them. The contributors range from former Constitutional Court judges to activists, writers and philosophers who look soberly at what has been achieved and what still needs to be done.

Literature as an Art Form - Evolving Intermedial Literary Landscape Asunción López-Varela Azcárate, 2025-07-02. Literature as an Art Form: Evolving Intermedial Literary Landscape brings together sixteen scholarly contributions that explore literature's ongoing transformation across media, cultures and technologies. This anthology traces the dynamic interplay between literature and visual, sonic, performative and algorithmic forms, ranging from illuminated manuscripts and oral traditions to digital texts and anime. Rejecting the notion of literature as a fixed verbal art, the chapters highlight its status as a transmedial, evolving practice shaped by and shaping the environments in which it is situated. Each essay examines how literature migrates across modalities, revealing it as a mutable process of technopoiesis. Together, they offer a compelling vision of literature not as an autonomous artefact but as a fluid cultural phenomenon whose conditions of existence are inseparable from intermedial exchange.

Daughter of Apartheid Lindi Tardif, 2019-07-02. It's been two decades since the fall of apartheid, a quarter century since the liberation of Eastern Europe, states five decades since the death of American Jim Crow, and seventy-plus years since the beginning of the emancipation of the African states. Freedom has advanced, yet there are some Black people in South Africa, the United States, and other parts around the globe who question if it has advanced far enough and are embittered. I am a Black woman born to the racist apartheid regime of South Africa. My family suffered the slights of apartheid, petty and grand, as well as the poverty, degradation, street violence, lack of opportunity, and other ills of the system. Twenty years old when apartheid gave way to the Rainbow Nation, I have lived about half my life under that system. Those who came before me knew only separation and oppression, while those who followed were born to the idea that South Africa belongs to all who live in it. My generation, perhaps it's not really a generation but rather a seven to ten year cohort, knows both. Therefore, my generation has a unique perspective on what happened then, as well as what is happening now: on transitioning from restriction to freedom, on recognizing and celebrating progress, on pushing through negatives to embrace forgiveness, hope, and humanity, and on understanding the importance of choice. In telling my story, as well as the stories of some of my friends and teachers, I share my perspective on the issues I have grappled with, including choice, identity, forgiveness, and humanity, with those who are wrestling with similar issues in the United States, my adopted home country, and in South Africa, the country of my birth. Deprivation and marginalization are, after all, as hurtful and debilitating in inner-city Baltimore as they are in Soweto, and making a deliberate decision to move forward in the face of either or both is always powerful, no matter what your address or particular circumstances.
