

3. Marking points

3.1 Marking of lists

This applies to questions requiring a set number of responses, but for which students have provided extra responses. The general principle to be followed in such a situation is that 'right + wrong = wrong'.

Each error / contradiction negates each correct response. So, if the number of errors / contradictions equals or exceeds the number of marks available for the question, no marks can be awarded.

However, responses considered to be neutral (indicated as * in example 1) are not penalised.

Example 1: What is the pH of an acidic solution?

[1 mark]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	green, 5	0
2	red*, 5	1
3	red*, 8	0

Example 2: Name two magnetic materials.

[2 marks]

Student	Response	Marks awarded
1	iron, steel, aluminium, copper	2

3.2 Marking of questions requiring a list

For questions requiring a specified number of responses (marked as a required number of marks), students are allowed to provide additional or contradictory responses. The marks for the question should be awarded based on the number of the question, each error is penalised.

3.3 Marking questions requiring calculation

When a question requires a specific stage of the calculation (e.g. calculate correctly), an incorrect answer is awarded no marks for working. An incorrect or a calculation involving more than one stage from that working is a calculation error. To gain correctly, the relevant marks may be awarded.

Full marks are only awarded for a correct final answer from consistent working.

3.4 Interpretation of 'or'

Answers using the word 'or' should be given credit only if it is clear that this is either a list or a correct answer.
