Meuten,2002-08-26 Since the third edition of Tumors of Domestic Animals there has been an enormous expansion of our knowledge about the molecular mechanisms of tumor development and the ancillary aids used to diagnose neoplasms. The fourth edition condenses this new body of information and presents it in a way that is useful to diagnostic pathologists, residents, veterinarians, and oncologists. The format of the previous editions has been maintained but the text and the illustrations are substantially changed or entirely different. Readers will be able to find salient clinical information, prevalence data, biological behavior, and most importantly, accurate information about gross and microscopic lesions to help diagnostic pathologists establish an accurate morphological diagnosis. The editor and authors of Tumors of Domestic Animals are all recognized experts in their fields; they recognize the need for accurate morphological diagnoses in veterinary patient care, particularly with the numerous treatment modalities now available to oncologists and owners. This landmark reference in veterinary pathology provides the applicable information that clinical veterinarians need and want to make decisions about treatment of the animals in their care. Surgical Pathology of Tumors of Domestic Animals Volume 1 Michael H. Goldschmidt, Robert Klopffleisch, John S. Munday, Jennifer L. Sruggs, 2018-07 This is the third edition of the International Histologic Classification of Skin Tumors of Domestic Animals. The original was published in 1974 by the World Health Organization and authored by E. Weiss and K. Frese. The second edition was published in 1998 and authored by M. H. Goldschmidt, R. W. Dunstan, A. A. Stannard, C. von Tscharner, E. J. Walder, and J. A. Yager. Over the last 4 decades it has become clear that many tumor entities are unique for different animal species and a simple adaptation of the WHO classification of human tumors to animal tumors would not be sufficient to provide an accurate diagnosis and prognosis for tumors in domestic animals While comparative pathology is still an integral part of veterinary tumor pathology it has become clear that even entities that are morphologically similar between humans and animals may have a different immunophenotype different biological behavior or a different response to various therapies This third series will therefore be titled Surgical Pathology of Tumors of Domestic Animals and will now be published by the Davis Thompson Foundation In contrast to previous versions this classification will also contain information on differential diagnoses and prognosis for each tumor entity The focus of this series will be on tumors in dogs and cats and to a lesser degree horses neoplasms in domestic livestock are rare and will only be addressed when unique entities require special mention Similarly tumors in ferrets as the third most common pet will be included as well However melanocytic tumors of domestic animals will be covered in a separate fascicle
